NORTHCLIFFE CALLS JAPAN BOGEY TO U.S. AND EUROPE

FEARS FOR CHINA

"Vigilance Necessary To Prevent Aggression"

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 5.—Lord Northcliffe in an interview by Mr. Lovat Fraser, which has been published in the Sunday Pictorial, emphasised the rapidity with which the East was changing fundamentally. Asia seemed to him to have awakened, and now to be cramming centuries into decades.

"The time must come," he said, "when we shall find the East, where we first learned the trading instinct, knocking at the doors of the world's markets, and some Eastern races are even doing so already."

He was convinced that the white races could hold their own, but only by thrift and industry could there be an avoidance of mad and futile quarrels between the Eastern and Western nations.

Dealing with Japan, Lord Northcliffe said he had formed the view that the legend of Japan was exaggerated, and that the Japanese were inclined to think that they had beaten a White race, but in reality they had been gently foiled.

They very considerably overrated their own powers, he declared, and were essentially imitators and not originators. Therefore their faculties in some respects were not upon the highest plane. It took a good many more Japanese to perform the same tasks which could be done by a limited number of Europeans.

Lord Northcliffe said that he did not think the British realised that Japan was an absolute autocracy, with a toy parliament, and with strangled newspapers. Japan had been too much of a bogey to Europe and America, he said, and the decisions at the Washington Conference, which the Japanese intensely disliked, would prevent them from encroaching on China, but constant vigilance would still be needed.

The Japanese aggression towards China was largely due to the unfortunate Anglo-Japanese Alliance, which now, he declared, was happily terminated.

CHAPEI ADOPTS NEW METHOD OF ENFORCING TAX

Chief Of Bureau Will Cut Water And Light Supply Of Persistent Evaders

Because of the persistent refusal to pay municipal taxes on the part of many residents in Chapei, Mr. Hsu Chien-ching, Commissioner of Public Works and Taxes of Northern Shanghai, has adopted a plan to enforce the assessment. He will, through the co-operation of the Chapei Water Works and the Electricity Department, stop the supply of either light or water to the tax dodger and force the evader to contribute his share towards municipal finance.

The measure was suggested by Commissioner Hsu when it was found that a large number of residents were refusing to be assessed. A memorandum was filed with the Defense Commissioner, General Ho Feng-ling, who has sanctioned the execution of the scheme.

In his memorandum to the Defense Commissioner, Commissioner Hsu stated that the methods had been effectively used by the municipal authorities in the Foreign settlements and it was the best way of handling obstinate residents.

FLU AT MANILA

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, Feb. 20.—A few cases of influenza have been reported in Manila during the last week. Health officials state that the cases are widely scattered, and that there is no reason to expect an epidemic. Warnings have, however, been issued to the public to take precautions against the spread of the disease.

SHELTON'S DEATH AT BANDIT HANDS NOW CONFIRMED

Missionary And Wife Passed Through City Last Fall

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, March 6.—A foreign official despatch confirms the rumor that Dr. Shelton was killed by robbers near Batang on February 17.

It was learned yesterday afternoon that Dr. and Mrs. Shelton passed through Shanghai last October, Mrs. Shelton remaining some days before her departure for India.

Dr. Shelton was a member of the Foreign Christian Mission and after his return from captivity last year, his mission board gave him $2,000 gold to make the trip to Lhasa on his great project of converting the Dalai Lama.

His presence in Batang is explained by the statement that his mission maintains a station there and had intended to use Batang as a base for its advance into Thibet where Chambdo was to have been the next station in the work.

The cablegram announcing Dr. Shelton's death at the hands of the bandits is said to have come from Rev. Mr. Klaver of the Pentacostal Mission which has a station at Likiang south of Batang and about half way from that outpost to Yunnanfu.

The possibility of Dr. Shelton's death at bandit hands is considered not unlikely as the chieftain who held him captive last year was executed and it is supposed that some or his men planned Dr. Shelton's murder by way of revenge.

11 More To Die For Manila Riots

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, March 6.—Eleven non-commissioned officers of the Philippine constabulary who participated in the riots in Manila in December, 1920 were today sentenced to death by the Supreme Court. Sixty-six privates who also took part in the rioting were sentenced to life imprisonment.

The Supreme Court raised the sentences of the Lower Court from life imprisonment to death in the case of the non-commissioned officers and from 17 years to life imprisonment in the case of the privates.

The court was composed of five Americans and four Filipinos and was unanimous in its decisions.

JOFFRE HERE TOMORROW; MANY FETES IN HIS HONOR

Famous Frenchman To Reach City At 8 P.M.

AVENUE ABLAZE

Program Of Entertainment To Cover Three Days

Marshal Joffre will arrive in Shanghai, North Station, by a special train from Nanking at 8 o'clock tomorrow night, according to an announcement by the local Bureau of Foreign Affairs. Mr. S. K. Chen, secretary of the bureau, left for Nanking last night to meet the Marshal at Pukow and to accompany him to Shanghai. During his stay in Shanghai, he will be the guest of Mr. Thesmar, 433 Avenue Joffre.

The program that has been arranged by the Chinese, French and foreign authorities in Shanghai in honor of the French soldier will cover three days. A special arch of electric lights has been erected at the North Station to welcome the Marshal. General Ho Feng-ling, the Defense Commissioner of Shanghai will send his band and a detachment of troops to act as guards of honor. Officials from the local bureaus and the consulates will meet the distinguished guest at the station.

The regular program will begin on Thursday morning at 11 o'clock, when he will be present at an inspection of the French Municipal Police in Koukaza Gardens. Following a noon tiffin at the French Consulate, he will make a tour of inspection of the French concession.

AVENUE DECORATED

The principal street, in the French concession, named in honor of the marshal, is being beautified by garlands, bunting and greens that workmen were busily winding around street poles today. All the streets that will be taken in the line of march for the torch light and lantern procession through Frenchtown on Wednesday night are being similarly decorated. A victory arch, that will be brilliantly illuminated for Joffre, has been erected on Route Vallon near the entrance to the Cercle Sportif Francais. After the procession there will be a reception and ball at the French Consulate-General.

The Chinese civil and military authorities, including General Ho, Vice-admiral Tsiang Chen, commander-in-chief of the Chinese admiralty and Mr. C. F. Hsu, Special Commissioner of Foreign Affairs, will give a luncheon on Friday at the Bureau of Foreign Affairs. The program for the remaining part of the day will include the planting of the Liberty Tree in Koukaza Gardens, laying of the foundation stone of the annex to the French-Chinese school, reception at the French Town Hall and, a dinner by Allied ex-service men.

On Saturday Marshal Joffre will inspect the Shanghai Volunteer Corps. At night he will attend a banquet given in his honor by the French residents of Shanghai at the Cercle Sportif Francais.

CALLS ON TUAN.

While in Tientsin Marshal Joffre paid a special call on ex-Premier Tuan Chi-jui according to the Dah Tong News Bureau. Lo Kai-pang, former vice-Minister of War, was present at the interview and served as interpreter. Marshal Joffre assured Tuan of his appreciation of his services rendered in connection with China's participation in the war.

Vice-admiral Tsiang Chen has despatched a gunboat to Nanking to fire the salute when Marshal Joffre crosses the Yangtsze from Pukow. General Ho has given orders to the Woosung forts to salute with 19 guns when the Marshal passes at Woosung on his departure. Cruisers and gunboats at Woosung harbor will also present the salutation.

CHINA'S EXPORTS TO AMERICA MAKE REMARKABLE GAIN

January's Trade Makes Jump Of 45.9 Percent Over December's Figure

China's exports to the United States scored a remarkable gain in the first month of the year, going to the total of $10,600,000 gold, an increase of $3,200,000 gold or 45.9 percent over December's total, according to reports that were cabled by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce at Washington to Mr. Julean Arnold, American Commercial Attache in China.

In January China's imports from the United States reached the sum of $7,600,000 gold, an increase of $300,000 gold over the total of the proceding month.

The exports and imports of the three-months period ending January 31 were as follows:

Imports From U. S. to China	Gold $
November 1921	7,500,000
December 1921	7,300,000
January 1922	7,600,000

TREATY FOES IN U. S. FEAR JAPANESE RUSSIAN WAR

Conditions Leading To Conflict In East, Belief

BORAH OPPOSES

Calls Pact "Alliance Against Traditional Policy"

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 6.—Washington advices show that the United States Administration's achievements in the field of foreign politics will be reviewed in the course of the Senate debate on the Pacific Treaty which opens today.

The Treaty is opposed by both the Irreconcilables and Democrats. The former, headed by Senator Borah, will denounce the Treaty as an alliance which is a departure from the traditional policy of the United States, while the latter will complain that the Treaty stops short of that all-comprehending alliance called the League of Nations, which is the only safe form of international association.

The argument against the Treaty which has so far had the greatest effect is based on the assumption that conditions in the Far East are steadily leading to another Russo-Japanese war in which Russia will seek to recover Saghalien, Eastern Siberia and her outlets in the Pacific. The opinion is expressed that in such circumstances the Treaty would necessitate a conference of the Four Powers and the question arises whether the United States would be diplomatically bound to take a favorable view of the Japanese case or whether it would be permissible to bring in Russia to the consultation.

The Administration's spokemen in the course of the coming debate are expected to deal with this uncertainty and generally to clarify the Treaty's implications.

PLAN DAILY DISCUSSION

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, March 5.—President Harding and Senator Lodge conferred on the ratification of the Pacific Treaty yesterday. It is understood that the President agreed fully to Senator Lodge's proposal to have the Treaty taken up on Monday by the Senate and discussed almost daily until a vote on ratification is obtained.

The President believes that the Pacific Treaty must be ratified before the naval and other pending treaties because, without the Pacific Treaty, the United States would not be in a position to abandon naval construction.

Municipal Report Shows Vast Expansion Of All Settlement Activities

Summaries Of Various Departments Of Government All Show Record-Breaking Figures With New Achievements In Prospect In 1922

The annual report of the Shanghai Municipal Council, the first part of which was given out yesterday for publication, promises to show that the year 1921 was an all-round record breaker for Shanghai. Figures and facts for every department discussed—the Volunteer Corps, the Fire Brigade, the Police Department, the Health Department, and educational problems all are larger and more startling than ever before. And, observations of heads of various departments would indicate that even these new and bigger figures are to be surpassed in 1922. The present year, if suggestions and recommendations to the central body are carried out will mark the biggest stride yet taken toward making an up-to-date and modern city of Shanghai.

The document which has a voluminous and interesting portion devoted to general matters, opens with the report of Col. R. Marr Johnson, commandant of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps, which shows increases of from 25 to 150 percent in enrollments, among the various units, excepting only the American company, which fell off by 25 percent in company strength. A record of the corps' growth and a promise for a big future is contained in the report.

The fire brigades affairs which are reported by Chief M. W. Pett were record breakers for the year. Calls increased 90 percent, losses increased more than six and a half million taels, and nearly every other figure connected with the department was higher than ever before. The big godown fire on North Soochow road was the biggest factor in the damage figures. And that same fire led the chief to make an urgent appeal for better water facilities with which to fight big fires: He pointed out that a scarcity of water was the chief cause for the great loss increase. He asks for sufficient fire hose and pumps and other equipment to meet another fire of such large proportions.

Most interesting, perhaps to the general public was the report of Commissioner of Police K. J. McEuen. "A movement akin to Bolshevism" exists in Shanghai, he said. Shanghai has become a dumping place for the flotsam and jetsam of the Far East and "the incubator of Oriental unrest", according to the Police Chief. The

Lake Frozen, But He Has His Dip Anyway

Purple City Sanctuaries Now House Peking Clerks

By Elsie McCormick

The old Forbidden City of China's Imperial regime is still to a great extent a Forbidden City. Though the days are gone when anybody who tried to look through the knot-holes was awarded a hundred strokes of the bamboo or when a stroller who tried to pass one of the yellow tiled gates had an excellent chance of coming out again in a wooden box, the precincts of the Purple City have no arch of welcome over the main entrance. You pass behind the walls when you visit the museum, which contains everything that the various invading armies couldn't find room for in their duffel-bags, and you likewise enter the sacred enclosure if you join the daily procession of fierce bird-tamers on their way to Central Park. But ordinarily you are as far outside the Purple City as a shepherder is out of Newport society.

Our chance to invade this strictly private domain occurred a few days ago when we wished ourselves on to the weekly excursion of journalists who call to get the latest social chit-chat from the Chinese government. When one of the correspondents attempted to escort Mrs. Eleanor Egan to the meeting some months ago, he was advised by the Chinese soldier at the gate to check his tai-tai outside.

"But she is also a newspaper writer," explained the correspondent in his best banquet Chinese.

TAI-TAI PUZZLED HIM

"I do not understand this thing," remarked the soldier. "In China, ladies are never newspaper men."

After about half an hour's arguing, the correspondent won his point, "Take her in if you must," said the guard, "but you would be much happier if you left her outside."

We expected something like that to happen to us, but evidently the precedent had its effect, because the guard had to be assured only three times that a newspaper actually printed what we wrote. He looked incredulous even then. Not having any way of disproving it, however, he let us pass with the others.

The Forbidden City is as complicated in its geography as a hedgerow maze at a picnic-ground. We explored it rather intensively with the journalists, and we thought that we covered it completely two years ago, but we don't remember seeing any of the same things twice. After passing through a series of yellow gates, we were met by a number of soldier-drawn ricshas and followed the road around the edge of the ice-bound lake.

Grouped on an island are the buildings where the wily Empress-Dowager imprisoned the rightful heir to the throne.

A PLEASANT JAIL

The roofs of turquoise and peacock blue and Nile green glimmering in the sun among the brown boughs of the trees make one wonder why anybody could object to being kept in a jail like that. The only blot on the landscape is the dome of the red-brick College of Generals, an institution organised for letting ex-Tuchuns down easy. Whenever a high official shows signs of diminishing utility, he is nominated to the College of Generals. It is understood to be a kind of old Ladies' Home for members of the Chinese military staff who are finished but don't know it.

Evil days have fallen upon the college, however, no salaries having been paid for the last eighteen months. Recently the members threatened to strike, but we imagine that the government will be able to withstand the shock. At least it won't be felt as severely as the recent shipping walkout.

The buildings of the Forbidden City do not reveal decomposition to the same extent as those of the Winter Palace. A great number of them are being used as government offices. President Hsu, having served under the Manchu regime, refused to move into one of the old palaces because he said he could not bring himself to occupy the home of his former superiors. He is therefore dwelling outside the walls. This feeling of super-delicacy does not extend to the departments under him, for the telegraph clerks do their work in the dressing-rooms of one of the Empress-Dowager's numerous theaters and members of the Premier's staff have desk-room across the moat which the lady ruler ordered built so that the

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, March 6.—The Gazette Extraordinary proclaimed the complete settlement of the strike. The seamen have undertaken that the men will return to work. It has been notified that the order-in-council declaring the seamen's union an unlawful society has been rescinded.

A procession of hundreds of Chinese with flags and banners followed carrying the seamen's union's signboard to the headquarters where the signboard was re-displayed. This ceremony was the occasion of extraordinary and jubiliant demonstrations. Crackers were fired, banners waved and the headquarters beflagged.

The domestic servants are beginning to return.

While the delegates had a recess during the drafting of the agreement, the representative of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Kwangtung expressed to Reuter's representative his satisfaction at the conclusion of the economic question and handed over the agreed scale of increases in wages which are as follows:

River steamers—30 percent; Canton, Macao, foreign river and Chinese coastal steamers—20 percent; Java, Pacific, European and Australian lines—15 percent.

The seamen thus secured their maximum demand in five out of nine lines, the differences in the remaining four being split.

Hongkong, March 6.—Never within living memory has Hongkong presented such a unique spectacle as it does today.

CIRCULAR ISSUED

When the conference delegates rose from the final meeting yesterday evening and later a circular in Chinese issued broadcast in the Colony announcing a settlement satisfactory to both parties, the hope was engendered that early this morning would see a gradual return to normality. This hope was dissipated when the fact was revealed that an intimation presented officially on Saturday of the intention of all non-striking guilds to go out at midnight on Sunday should the negotiations of the conference break down had become effective in spite of the fact that the agreements had been signed.

A few straggling rickshaws and chairs are the only visible evidence of public vehicular traffic. Armed soldiers in motor-lorries are patrolling the town. Volunteers are taking up guard at important centers. The motor-car drivers who struck on Saturday have restricted transport facilities to Govenment and privately owned cars and vans, which are generally impress into the public services.

The engineering guilds went out yesterday evening and caused the suspension of work in all shipbuilding and repairing yards, including the naval establishments. The cessation of the low-level and Peak tram services has dislocated communication, which, already a serious difficulty during the emergency, has been greatly accentuated today. The Chinese shops as well as the European are mostly only partially open. The banks are functioning with armed volunteers within the vestibule. The business houses are staffed as usual but with partial depletions of the Chinese but there is an absence of transactions.

Boy Scouts are operating the electric lifts, and act as messengers. Gangs of coolies proceed to work only under police protection. Europeans perform their own domestic services and the sight is very common of young children bringing down luncheons for their elders into the city. Large institutions like convents and schools have thrown upon the respective administrative officers the task of provisioning under exceptional difficulties.

HOLIDAY ASPECT

Knots of Chinese are purposelessly strolling in the streets giving it a holiday aspect.

A Gazette Extraordinary is being issued confirming the conference settlements and rescinding the ban against the unions, upon which the return of the men can be expected.

Hongkong, March 6.—The Honorable J. H. Kemp, the Honorable E. R. Halifax and Mr. A. G. M. Fletcher represented the Government at the second conference last evening.

Messrs. A. O. Lang, G. T. M. Edkins and D. G. M. Bernard were present, but were without power to take part in the discussion, which lasted 2½ hours. All the outstanding questions were settled.

The seamen's delegates have issued a circular, instructing all men to return to work.

Despite the settlement of the strike, all the Chinese hands in the ship-building dockyards, and in the Electric Tramway Company, and the rickshaw and chair coolies, who up to the present had not been implicated, went out on strike at midnight.

The only explanation which can be given for this phase of the situation is that the guilds of these men issued their instructions for the men to strike today, before the conclusion of yesterday's agreements, and that these instructions had not yet been countermanded.

DELEGATES SATISFIED

Mr. Luk King-fo, secretary to the Civil Governor and secretary to the Commissioner of Foreign Affairs at Canton, further stated in the course of the interview by Reuter's representative that:

"All the delegates are quite satisfied with the conduct of the conference. I cannot say how soon the men are returning to work. That depends on how Mr. Halifax is handling the question. I am proposing to Mr. Halifax when I see him that an express should be circulated by the delegates of the seamen's union informing the public of Hongkong that they are fixing a day for the resuming of work. Mr. Halifax may at the same time promulgate a proclamation informing the public to the same effect.

"The delegates hope to return to Canton tomorrow. Respecting the three persons killed and eight wounded, they hope that the Government will deal with the case satisfactorily."

Questioned as to what he meant by "satisfactorily," Mr. Luk King-fo replied: "It means the dealing out of some punishment to the men who did the shooting or, alternatively, the payment of compensation."

Hongkong, March 6.—In the course of a letter to the newspapers, the secretary to the Civil Governor of Canton and spokesman of the Canton delegates wrote:

"Before the session yesterday morning, Sir Robert Ho Tung spoke to me. He said that he had learned that, inter alia, one of the outstanding points at issue was that half-pay should be granted to the seamen before reinstatement. Sir Robert was most eager that varying views between the delegates and the shipowners should not be allowed to remain a stumbling-block in the way of a satisfactory settlement. He was anxious to do what he could to bring the matter in dispute to a speedy conclusion and would step into the breach.

"In this circumstance he gave his assurance and his personal undertaking that he would himself make good the difference. I thanked Sir Robert for his generous offers and goodwill, which I communicated to my confreres. I must say that the influence of Sir Robert's attitude produced a decidedly pleasing effect on the delegates and improved the atmosphere. We became convinced that were any advance to be made in the matter of half-pay, in the course of the conference, over and above one month's half-pay, Sir Robert's generous offer was behind it and would render an advance possible."

Shipping Strike In Yangtsze Threatens

(China Press Correspondence)

Hankow, March 2.—Chinese employes of shipping companies on the upper Yangtsze River from Ichang to Chungking as well as on the Han River are threatening to march out in general strike upon their appeals for increase of wages having been held unanswered by their employers, according to the press of Hankow.

For several weeks, agitations for increase of wages have been going on, but the companies have remained quiet and unmindful of the shipping men's demands. The latter contended that the increasing standard of living in China has occasioned serious crisis in the economic status and living conditions of people at large, and the working class are the worst affected. It is understood that before long the companies will be compelled to compromise with their employes on the dispute.

water might soften the voices of the players.

LANDSCAPE EFFECTS

A long tangle of red-beamed corridors, marble bridges zigzagging across streams, a close formation of tea houses and pavilions, and the frequent recurrence of gardens formed from tortured rock are the most prominent landscape elements in this part of the Purple City. We don't know just how the Chinese have succeeded in making garden rocks grow as they do. All of them have weird, gnomelike shapes, and some seemed so human that we expected them to reach out and shake hands with us. We suppose they were originated by somebody who had the idea of enforcing sobriety on the royal house. No one less than a hundred percent sober would dare walk home through a garden like that.

It was near one of these rockeries that we saw the little marble house built by Yuan Shih-kai to hold the golden box containing the names of those he had nominated as possible successors. His orders were that the box was not to be opened until his death, but by the time he found it expedient to die the nomination was worth about as much as the chance to run for United States President on a third party ticket. The marble house with its grilled doors looks Moorish rather than Chinese. Nobody seems to know just what has become of the golden box. Probably some Tuchun is raising onions in it.

YUAN'S AUDIENCE HALL

Another imprint of Yuan Shih-kai's strenuous personality is the glass-domed audience hall, which, it is said, he ordered completed in twenty-one days. Incomprehensible though it may seem to any foreigner who has tried building a house in China, the story says that it was actually finished on time. To us it seemed a hybrid structure, impressive enough by itself, but as out of place in the Forbidden City, as a steam-roller in Thebes.

We used to wonder what the manufacturers of imitation Nottingham curtains did with their product when the style went out with such emphasis at home. We know now. They sent them all to China to put up in the windows of former imperial palaces. Coarse lace curtains, much the worse for wear, serve as representatives of Western civilisation in this treasure trove of Eastern art.

When the American, British, German, Chinese and Japanese newspaper correspondents had completed an excursion of the grounds, they were led to a reception room in the Premier's office suite. Here the courteous representative of the Cabinet outlined the news of the day, but we didn't hear any of it, because our attention was divided between an exquisite lacquer screen ornamented by figures of carved jade, and a German chandelier of varicolored bulbous glass that might have been selected for the home of a millionaire sausage manufacturer.

Maybe that Chinese soldier was right in refusing to believe that we are a newspaper woman.

Prince Of Wales In Northernmost India

(Reuter's Service)

Peshawar, March 4.—After a delightful journey through the Pabbi hill-country the Prince of Wales arrived at Peshawar this morning, thereby reaching the northernmost point of his Indian tour.

His Royal Highness received an impressive military welcome, after which he drove through the cantonments to Government House, passing very picturesque crowds comprising Ghilzis, Mohmands, Afridis, Afghans and various caravan travellers from Central Asia who expressed their welcome in quaint and uncouth fashion.

Except for a garden-party at Government House the day was left free for the Prince, who has been suffering from a slight cold caught at Lahore, but which the bracing frontier air should entirely dispel.

Municipal Report Shows Expansion

records of the department for the year were startling, and worthy of close study.

Health and education were also demand of special interest, department reports reveal. The recent epidemic of small pox, and the benefits of vaccination which was credited with having halted a really threatening situation was the chief item in the report of the health department, while the increase in the demand for accommodations in Shanghai's Council schools concerned for the greater part the committees on education. Should their recommendations be carried out, and their prophesies for the immediate future materialise, Shanghai's school system is due for a reconstruction that will build it into really Metropolitan proportions.

More And Better School Facilities Are Demanded

Demands for education in the schools controlled by the Shanghai Municipal Council during the year 1921 were greater than ever before in the history of the settlement. They have increased steadily through the last decade to the present maximum. And facilities for education have barely kept pace with the demand, though the increase in available facilities, as well as in the demand, has been extraordinary.

The annual report (Part 1) of the Shanghai Municipal Council says concerning educational needs within the settlement, that in the immediate or near future the council will be called upon to provide extensive additions to present buildings, or to construct additional new, up to date institutions.

At the end of 1921, the report shows, eleven schools with grand totals of 1,141 foreign and 1,182 Chinese pupils in attendance, were operating under the Municipal supervision as compared to the figures for ten years ago, when but two schools were functioning, with only 319 foreign children attending in one, and 400 Chinese students on the roll in the other.

The report outlines briefly the history of the building up of the present school system quoting the different influences which have brought about the changes in educational control. The normal growth of the city, the increased foreign population in the outports and back country with the greater demand upon Shanghai's school facilities, not to mention the refugees movement from Russia in the last few years all have worked to enlarge the Shanghai's school system.

RECORD EXPENDITURES

Educational expenditures for 1921 reached the record figure of Tls. 382,287, Tls. 50,000 greater than the previous year, and almost Tls. 100,000 greater than in 1919. Expenditures in 1912, when but two schools composed the system and but 700 pupils were carried on the rolls, were Tls. 95,337.

Aside from calling to attention the alarming increase in educational demands, and the need within short time for reconstructing Shanghai's school facilities to meet the impending situation, most important of the committee's suggestions is the recommendation, first mentioned in the report for 1919, but not acted upon, for a properly qualified commissioner of education to give his full time to the study of educational problems. It is urged as the committee's belief that such a commissioner could save in the first year or two the amount of his salary, in obtaining greater efficiency in expenditures, together with better results in handling the educational problem.

The committee in suggesting the appointment of a commissioner points out that during 1921 it has been able to devote but 14 hours to inspection of Shanghai Schools, the seven Council institutions and the four others receiving grants in aid. The increased efficiency in the school system, the report continues, would well justify the inclusion of the new official salary in the annual budget.

The allocation of Tls. 4,000 in this year's budget toward the cost of the erection of the new Girls School on the council's property on Yu Yuen road is favorably commented upon in the report. The completion of the building will relieve to a considerable degree the present school on Avenue Road, which now has 128 pupils and cannot receive more. The present building is also termed as "not suitable for modern education."

CHIEF RECOMMENDATIONS

The purchase of the property on which the Jangping road kindergarten stand is strongly recommended. "The school should be maintained," the committee urge, "and with the lease for the property falling due next November, steps should be taken at once for its renewal."

An additional School for Boys in the western district is forecasted from the study growth in the number of pupils attending the Public School. "The decision will require earnest thought both from a matter of expediency to site as well as from the financial point of view."

The Thomas Hanbury School for Girls is classified in the report as unsuitable, and the unsatisfactory condition of the building renders great difficulty in the bringing up of children. The committee in previous years had already pointed out that the building is not at all suitable for modern ideas of education. The danger of fire in the upper floor dormitory is a point to which we would call special attention, as in the unfortunate event of fire the danger attaching to the lives of small children in these rooms should be better guarded against.

General suggestions contained in the report are for close attention to children's health, particularly eye-sight, both in school and at home; improvements in lighting systems, seating comforts and facilities; the providing of educational journals in Chinese and English for reading rooms; the importance of nature study; the teaching of the dangers of the use of narcotics, and of personal impurity; the cultivation of esprit de corps and the helping of students to choose their vocations in life.

Bolshevism Is Gaining Ground, Police Believe

Shanghai is the dumping ground for the flotsam and jetsam of the Far East and the incubator of Oriental unrest—"a movement akin to Bolshevism"—and to those two causes are blamable a greater part of the crime prevalent in the Settlement, according to the report of Commissioner of Police K. J. McEuen in the Shanghai Municipal Council's report for 1921.

In addition to these causes the opposition to the licensing of rice shops, the agitation of the various street unions and the unusual activities incident to China's participation in the Washington Conference are included in the situations the Settlement police have had to cope with during the past year.

"Signs are not lacking that a movement akin to Bolshevism is slowly but steadily gaining ground in Shanghai and other places", Mr. McEuen says in his report, citing several cases. He also reports that 27 different kinds of Anarchist and Communistic propaganda was handled by the special criminal investigation department.

FIFTEEN SLAYINGS;

Crime in Shanghai during the past year included 15 murders, and 12 people met death by other violent means. There were 84 instances of armed robbery as compared with 33 reported during the previous year. In commenting on the robberies Mr. McEuen states that the robberies last year were more systematically carried out and that the class of robbers is getting more 'professional'. In connection with the armed robberies 87 persons were arrested, 42 handed over to the Chinese authorities for punishment, and others imprisoned or otherwise dealt with. Twenty-seven persons sentenced to death were executed by the Arsenal authorities in the presence of Settlement police.

During the year the report says, 4,254 reports of property stolen were made, an increase of 170 over 1920. Successful arrests were made in 1,512 cases. Two hundred and twenty six runners of Hwo Wei lotteries were arrested during the campaign against those lotteries.

"Although there is a considerable increase in the number of crimes committed by foreigners, the record is not quite so high as might be expected in view of the number of persons of uncertain nationality and unsavory reputation who are drawn to Shanghai by the absence of passport regulations and restrictions and by the lure of riches to be acquired through dealing in opium and other contraband articles" Mr. McEuen states. "Steps may have to be taken in the future in this connection if Shanghai is not to continue to be used as a resort for the smugglers of all nations and a dumping ground for the flotsam and jetsam of the Far East."

MAKES SUGGESTIONS

In discussing Shanghai's traffic problem Mr. McEuen calls attention to a number of evils and makes several recomendations which he considers important.

Mr. McEuen states that the special traffic department is making good headway in the handling of motor traffic and that ricsha will be taken in hand in the near future with a view of improving conditions at least on the main roads.

"It is to be hoped that the one-way street plan, which was tried in the central district in 1919 with such excellent results, will be reintroduced". Mr. McEuen says. "Notwithstanding the delay attending the use of Nanking Road during the rush hours, most people seem to prefer to go any of the alternative routes between the western residential area and the central district," the report states, concluding that motor vehicle owners apparently do not take into consideration the shorter, more direct cuts that would save both expense and traffic tie-ups.

The report shows that 1,042 chauffeurs were prosecuted during the year as well as 92 other drivers. Thirteen chaffeur's licenses were cancelled and 133 suspended. The present number of chauffeurs registered in the Settlement is 3,744.

Concerning the prosecution of motor law violator Mr. McEuen decries the action of some of the Consular courts.

"It would be of great assistance in the enforcement of traffic regulations were all Consular courts to take a more serious view of traffic cases and inflict punishments more in keeping with those imposed for similar offenses in their own countries" he states. "Leniency seems misplaced where it can be shown that persons have deliberately ignored written warnings from the police or where they have obviously relied upon local conditions to shield them from the full legal consequences of their offense."

Fire Chief Asks For More Water And New Equipment

The year 1921 was a year of records making for the Shanghai Fire Brigade, according to the report of Chief M. W. Pett contained in the annual report of the Municipal Council released for publication yesterday. The number of calls answered during the year was 90 percent greater than ever before; property damage for the twelve-month was more than six and a half million taels over any other year, and almost every other figure or total contained in the report is larger for 1921 than ever before.

Mr. Pett gives the total number of calls to fires or supposed fires during the year as 405, an increase of 90 over the preceding year. The preceding years calls also exceed the previous high record by 80. No calls were received through the street alarms.

Of the fire calls 283 were actual fires on assessed property within the Settlement and caused a total property damage of Tls. 6,836,321, an increase of Tls. 6,590,936 over the preceding year.

GODOWN FIRE LARGEST

The reason for the exceptionally high fire loss was the conflagration of North Soochow Road on March 11 which caused a loss of six and half million taels. That one fire caused a loss more than Tls. 1,000,000 greater than the entire fire losses of the past decade and twenty-two times Shanghai's fire loss in 1920. With the exception of the Soochow Road fire the loss was below normal.

Fifteen lives were lost as a result of the year's fires and 17 persons and 4 firemen were injured. The department spent 2,686 hours and 38 minutes fighting fires during the year and laid 29 miles and 1,184 yards of hose.

Chief Officer Pett in conclusion states that there is a heavy shortage of fire hose and pumps. At the present time the department is on such a narrow allowance in equipment that if any piece is disabled there is no replacement equipment, Mr. Pett says. The question of water supply also continues to place the department at a disadvantage. Mr. Pett states:

BLAMES WATER SHORTAGE

"Admittedly, the problem is no easy one, but any Fire Department is powerless without water. Generally speaking the present water system does not meet even the supply for domestic purposes, let alone that of fire. Heavy fire losses are bound to be the order of the day until better facilities are given, not only as regards supply, but also pressure type and number of hydrants, etc.

"The past decade has seen a complete change in the opinion as to methods appertaining to fire. Previously it was considered sufficient to wait until a fire occurred and then try to extinguish it. Nowadays science has been applied to a much better end, namely to eliminate as far as possible the cause of fire and to automatically check and deal with it when it does occur. In Shanghai, I am afraid there is not much sympathy in an endeavor to cope with this serious problem. There is a conservatism difficult to overcome, and the majority when they have insured consider they have done more than sufficient, quite forgetting they have a responsibility other than just paying insurance premiums."

Volunteer Corps Units Stronger By 200 Men

Col. R. Marr Johnson, commandant of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps, in his report states that the strength of the corps has increased by 200 during the past year, all the companies showing an increase of from 25 to 150 percent with the exception of the American Company, which fell off 20 percent.

Col. Johnson pays particular tribute to the willingness of British ex-service men to enter the corps and the zeal shown by newly appointed officers of the Portuguese company. Concerning the American Company Col. Johnson writes: "It is amazing to me that this company comprises such a small proportion of the American community. The only fault I have to find with those in the unit is that there has been a tendency to relegate everything but musketry and parade movements to the background. Brighter prospects were, however, indicated by the handling of the squads in the last 'service' competition of the year, and I feel sure that the training of the subordinate formations as fighting organisations is being taken in hand."

After commenting on the valuable loans made to the corps of various guns, howitzers and stores Col. Johnson recommends the purchase of considerable new equipment to add to the efficiency of the corps, including 600 stands of rifles and bayonets.

Concluding Col. Johnson says: "I think the Council has good reason to be satisfied with the state of the corps generally, both as regards numbers and efficiency, etc., during this first year succeeding the 'starvation' period."

The total strength of the corps now is 1206 active, 130 reserves, and 66 special reserves, a grand total of 1402.

Health Report Shows Big Increase In Death Rate

Shanghai's civic health compared favorably with former years, according to the report on health matters despite the epidemic of smallpox that swept the settlement during the fall.

The death rate among 24,000 foreign residents was 18.2 per thousand, compared with 15.2 in 1920. Of these deaths, the report says, 40.6 were Europeans and Americans. The Chinese death rate was 11 per thousand, the lowest ever recorded in the history of the Settlement, due, the report states, to the splendid work of the health inspectors and the fact that the sanitary idea is taking root among the Chinese.

Smallpox got its start in Shanghai by a famine refugee coming into the Settlement from the outskirts, the report says, in January. The disease appeared sporadically until November, when it broke out sharply causing 31 deaths in that month and 161 in December among the Chinese; 8 in November and 15 in December among the foreign residents. Forty-three percent of the Chinese deaths occured in an area in the north of the Settlement, bounded by Soochow Creek, North Honan Road, Haining Road and North Chekiang Road, the most densely populated and poorest in the Settlement.

VACCINATION ESSENTIAL

Concerning the benefits of Vaccination the report States.

"Vaccination, and revaccination efficiently and duly performed, is the primary essential method of prevention of the disease. Investigation concerning vaccination of cases of smallpox among the foreign population showed that about 75 percent had never been vaccinated, 20 percent not within ten years an in 5 percent the history was doubtful. The remarkable freedom from smallpox in 1919 and 1920, when not a single death occurred among the Chinese, created a false sense of security, which led to neglect of vaccination. Thus there was an accumulation off non-immune material and the inevitable outbreak occurred."

Of other disease the report states that deaths among foreign residents were: Cholera 11, typhoid fever 19, diphtheria 5, tuberculosis 34, lobor pneumonia 19, beri-beri 23, dysentery 15; cancer 11; cardio-vascular diseases 15 bronchitis 25, diseases of kidney 20, and others making a total of 437. Seven foreigners committed suicide.

More than one-half, 225, of the deaths among foreigners were Japanese, 105 were British and 33 were Portuguese. The nationality of other foreign deaths was as follows: American, 29, Czecho-Slovak 2, Danish 2, Esthonian 1, French 1, Greek 2, Italian 3, Lettish 1, Malay 1, Norwegian 2, Roumanian 1, Russian 15, Spanish 8, Swedish 1, Swiss 4, and Turkish 1. The average age at deaths was 27.6 years.

LIANG TAKES PEN IN HAND, CLOUTS WU TERRIFICALLY

General, Shouting "Traitor" Is Reminded Of Bribe

(Chung Mei News Agency)

Peking, March 4.—Mr. Liang Shih-yi, after a long silence, has opened an attack upon General Wu Pei-fu, citing the specific point of Wu's accusation that Mr. Liang was "selling" the country and recalling to the Loyang General's mind a loan that was made with the Japanese Asiatic Development Company by a 'certain' Tuchun for $2,500,000 against which, he said, Wu Pei-fu made no protest of any kind; Mr Liang says that it is reported that Wu's silence in this case was bought for $600,000 and that whether this report is true or not he cannot but believe that there is some ulterior motive behind the attacks of Wu upon himself.

While expressing his deep appreciation of the patriotic sentiments expressed in General Wu's telegrams, Mr. Liang says that he cannot feel that the effort to raise money from a foreign country to redeem the Kiaochow-Tsinan Railway, assuming for the moment that he had made the effort, can be considered a crime, even if he had attempted to borrow this money from Japan.

REPLIES TO WU

"If irrespective of the purpose for which a loan is being raised from foreign countries, the sweeping charge is made that because of the mere fact that an official has concluded a foreign loan he has been guilty of a traitorous act, then how would General Wu Pei-fu speak of those officials who have more than once raised money from the Japanese?

"Chenchow," says Mr. Liang, "is very close to Loyang, and can it be possible that General Wu Pei-fu should not know what is going on there? Does he not know that a year ago a 'certain' Tuchun concluded with the Japanese Asiatic Development Company a loan of $2,500,000 for the development of Chenchow as a commercial center? The terms of this loan were so severe that the transaction savored strongly of 'selling the country' on the part of the 'certain' Tuchun. But though more than a year has gone by General Wu has said nothing.

"But it was reported," says the Premier, "that General Wu Pei-fu received $600,000 as the price of his keeping quiet in this matter of course, he, Liang, cannot vouch for the truth of this report, but if it should be true, then General Wu has long been guilty of the charge which he brought against Liang. If it is not true, then consistency and fairness demand that he should have attacked this 'certain' Tuchun at once, or at least before launching his telegraph crusade against the Premier.

"As General Wu has not taken the trouble to verify the truth of the report that Liang was 'selling his country,' 'there must be an ulterior motive behind his opposition," concludes Mr. Liang.

Premier Liang Shih-yi, in a telegram addressed to the press of Shanghai, Sunday, denied that he ever sent the above message to General Wu. The text of his denial follows:

"It has been published in the press that I had addressed a telegram to General Wu Pei-fu of Loyang, protesting against his ignorance on the Japanese loan secured by a certain Tuchun for the development of the commercial port of Chengchow, I have never despatched any such telegram nor do I know of any Japanese loan secured by that tuchun. It is evident that some unscrupulous person or persons have engineered this to engender hostile feeling between General Wu and myself. Kindly correct this report."

Jehol Troops Now Lack Commander

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, March 2.—Following the death of General Chiang Kuei, the Yichun has been placed under the command of General Wang Huei-ching who will act in the capacity of Associated Director.

It is reported that the members of a certain faction are making every effort to secure the appointment of General Chang Hsun, the monarchical leader in the 1917 trouble, as Commander-in-Chief of the Yichun in order to prevent its being employed by the Chihli faction, but it is uncertain what success they will meet with.

The feeling of the Yichun toward the Fengtien faction is believed to be far from cordial since the latter ousted them from their former post at Jehol.

Found a Cure for Indigestion.

"I use Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets for indigestion and find they suit my case better than any dyspepsia remedy I have ever tried and I have used many different medicines. I am nearly fifty one years of age and have suffered a great deal from indigestion. I can eat almost anything I want to, now," writes George W. Emory, Dock Mills, Ala. These tablets contain no pepsin but strengthen the stomach and enable it to digest the food naturally.

Scotland Scores 29th Win Over Irish Soccer Teams

Game Played At Glasgow Shows Scots Better All The Way; Score Was 2-1

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 4.—Scotland beat Ireland by 2 goals to 1 in a soccer match at Glasgow today.

The weather was fine, and the number of spectators was estimated at 25,000. The Irishmen were better in the first half, being tenacious in defence and persistent in attack. Two minutes from the interval Ireland scored through Gillespie.

On the resumption of play, the Irish forwards, in dashing style, attacked the Scottish goal and bombarded it with shots from all angles. Then Scotland attacked and scored through the center forward, Wilson. After fifteen minutes the Scotsmen continued to improve and Wilson succeeded in scoring another goal ten minutes from time.

The match was the thirty-fourth played between the two countries. The win was Scotland's 29th. Ireland has won the match but twice, and drawn with the Scots three times.

M'GRAW WILL MANAGE GIANTS FROM BASE LINE

John J. M'Graw, baseball's greatest manager, is seriously considering returning to the coaching lines the coming season.

During the penant fight of the Giants last year the little leader remained on the bench. The year before he seldom went to either the first base or third base box, although in two or three tight games he did go out and afford the fans a chance to give him the well-known north and south.

Last Spring he announced that henceforth he would be a bench manager strictly. He admitted that it was sure hard work to sit there under cover when the battle on the diamond was raging wildly. The nervous strain was tough on the veteran of many a tough game.

McGraw has received over a hundred letters from friends asking him to get back on the coaching job in the coming campaign, and now he is trying to figure out just what he will do. Hughey Jennings and "Cozy" Dolan the Giants' manager has two corking assistants, yet neither has earned the reputation of a McGraw as a field director.

Exit—

Did you ever hear of the town of Telligent? Did you ever hear of that beautiful burg of Telligent?

Did you ever live there?

I know you didn't.

Because I know that you have never been in Telligent?

No. You have never been in Telligent.

That's my town, even if I don't live there now. Reading between the lines I find that you have said nothing. It all started when the old gent blew into town three days ahead of the fight and demanded the winner's end.

Yours for educated dumbwaiters.

Entrance.

Mr. Sweeney.

Mr. Sweeney is right as unusual. There can be no doubt splashed on that fact. We remember when the old man blew into town three days ahead of the fight.

And we remember when he rumbled out of town two days before the same fight. Mr. Sweeney was managing him.

It is a well known epitaph among Roughtown subscribers that animals will leave footprints in the snow. Mr. Sweeney states in his letter that Jumbo was the largest elephant in the parade. But, when we were talking about quaint folk customs of the New Hebrides, why should we change the conversation to marble-topped asparagus?

We can get nowhere rambling from word to word. Let us take one subject and avoid it.

We admit that The Glutt was a good battler, but the fight that Mr. Sweeney carefully overlooks in his postscript is the fight we mean. The Philharmonic Orchestra was starring in the preliminary windup with the Brothers Byrnes in the olio.

Naturally, Roughtown people looked forward to a pleasant evening among flying teeth and splendidly thumped jawbones. But the old man disappointed the works by climbing into the ring with a very artificial crease in his trousers.

That's the story and we stick to it. Mr. Sweeney is wrong. Gink Fowler was never defeated in a fair fight in his life.

We repeat that Gink Fowler was never flattened in a fair fight in his life, high or low. Gink Fowler was never in a fair fight in his life.

DEMPSEY-BRENNAN BOUT BANNED BY N. Y. COMMISSION

New York, Feb. 6.—William Muldoon, Chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, notified Tex Rickard, Madison Square Garden promoter, yesterday, that under no circumstances would the Boxing Governing Board tolerate another match between Jack Dempsey and Bill Brennan for the world's heavyweight championship. The notification caused an unexpected upset in plans to sign this title contest for March 17 at Madison Square Garden. Preliminary details had been arranged, and it was planned to sign the champion and his Chicago rival for a twelve-round battle in the Garden, making the third match between Dempsey and Brennan.

Upon being informed of the commission's attitude with respect to the proposed match, Mr. Rickard declared he had definitely abandoned plans to conduct the contest in Madison Square Garden Leo P. Flynn, manager of Brennan, announced his readiness to agree to a match between Brennan and the champion anywhere else in the country outside of New York. Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, could not be reached after the commission's decision. The champion's mentor, it was said at the Hotel Belmont, was in Philadelphia.

The action of the commission was taken, because the proposed battle did not appeal to the governing officials as a contest which was warranted under the circumstances existing in the heavyweight ranks just now. Chairman Muldoon expressed confidence that this view was shared by the general run of boxing enthusiasts. The commission head was firm in his attitude against the proposed match and expressed himself vigorously on the matter.

MULDOON AGAINST BOUT

"A match between Dempsey and Brennan will not be permitted under any circumstances just now," said Chairman Muldoon. "Such a contest, in my opinion, would not be a proper match to offer the public at this time. The idea is ridiculous on the face of it. Personally I think it is the cheekiest proposition ever advanced in boxing circles. The contest, if it was sanctioned, would simply be an imposition on the patrons of boxing here and the public generally. It would be merely an excuse for the boxers to come here and divide several hundred thousand dollars on the pretext of a contest which, in the end, is not a real contest in the strict sense of the term. There may be some who would stand for such a bout, I do not know. But I do know that I will not."

Navy Beats Army At Rugby By Score Of 7 Points To 3

Annual Inter-Services Match Was Attended By King And 10,000 Fans

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 4.—In the annual inter-Services Rugby football match at Twickenham today the Navy beat the Army by 7 points to 3.

The weather was showery and the ground heavy. The spectators, numbering about 10,000, included His Majesty, the King, who received a most enthusiastic reception.

At the outset, the Army continually attacked and, after twelve minutes, a fine Army threequarter movement ended in Day scoring a try. The Navy then took up the attack, England's skipper, Davies, the halfback, initiating fine movements. After ten minutes of heavy pressure, the Navy equalised, Luddington placing a penalty goal.

The score at the interval was 3 points each.

On the resumption of play, the Navy went away with a great rush and gave the Army an anxious time. Then the Army picked up and made a series of onslaughts on their opponents' line, but the sailors soon returned the attack, Davies cleverly dropping a goal.

The game was vigorous and fast to the end, but, although both lines were frequently in danger, there was no further scoring.

Freddy Williams To Meet Villon In Manila Saturday

Frank Churchill, manager of the Olympic Stadium, in Manila announces that Macario Villon, feather and light-weight champion of the Orient, and Freddy Williams of Boston, have been matched to meet at Manila Saturday for the feather-weight title.

Williams recently met and defeated Francisco Flores, the Filipino Tiger, in a ten round battle at the stadium.

In meeting Villion, Williams will meet a fighter, that is better in many respects than Flores, at least on the assumption that he is the champion. Both are brainy fighters and can hit with either hand, while Williams, if he does not defeat the champion, is expected to hold his own.

Millinery Shop's Affairs Aired Before British Court

Hearing Opened Involving Deals With Establishment On Broadway In The Astor Block

Preliminary statements were presented yesterday in the British Supreme Court before Judge Peter Grain in the case of a claim of Messrs. Seth, Mancell and Mc Lure, trustees of the property of Mrs. Tahana Linhoff Arcus, recently declared bankrupt, against Emily Moore. The action involves a tangle in the affairs of the millinery establishment in the Astor House block at Nos. 3A and 4A Broadway.

Mr. A. G. Mossop represents the plaintiffs; Mr. K. E. Newman, the defendant and Mr. P. W. Goldring represents other interests involved.

Mr. A. G. Mossop, counsel for the plaintiff, said that the bankrupt carried on business in the Astor House block at 3A and 4A Broadway as a dressmaker and milliner under the name of T. Linoff and under the firm name of Maison de Modes. On August 23 last the plaintiffs were appointed trustees of the bankrupt's estate by an order of the International Mixed Court. On May 17 Mrs. Arcus entered into an arrangement with her creditors, and the latter appointed a committee to supervise the conduct of the business of Maison de Modes, and Mrs. Arcus accordingly handed over the business to Mr. John Pirry, the nominee of the committee. By a contract dated June 23 last the whole of the goodwill, fixtures, stock, lease, etc., was sold to the defendant for Tls. 29,000, and as a residue of the consideration, the defendant agreed to employ Mrs. Arcus in the business for a term of three years.

Mr. Mossop mentioned that the defendant entered into the contract with Mrs. Arcus with full knowledge of the arrangement made between Mrs. Arcus and her creditors. On June 25 last Mrs. Arcus left Shanghai without the knowledge of the creditors but with the knowledge of the defendant and at her expense. Mr. Mossop also alleged that the defendant with the object of defeating the creditors witheld from them all information as to the existence of the contract. On June 30 Mr. Arcus, as attorney for Mrs. Arcus, assigned to the defendant the residue of the lease of premises, and the defendant took possession of same.

On July 25 defendant gave oral notice to Mr. Max Shoop, representing the creditors, to remove the stock appertaining to the business from the premises. On July 6 Messrs. Andersen Meyer and Co. filed a petition in the Mixed Court praying for a receiving order to be made against the estate of the bankrupt and that they may be appointed receivers. At that time, Mr. Mossop said, Messrs. Andersen Meyer and Co. were ignorant of the existence of the contract. The plaintiffs removed the stock, fixtures, etc., from the premises in compliance with the request of the defendant, and at all times up till October 5 the plaintiffs were not aware of the existence of the contract. The defendant had refused to make payment to the plaintiffs under the contract.

Mr. K. E. Newman, who appeared for the defendant, did not admit that the defendant entered into any contract with full knowledge of the arrangement between bankrupt and her creditors, nor was she under an obligation to notify the creditors of the contract, such duty being upon the bankrupt. She also denied that she had full benefit of the lease of the premises. Defendant also alleged that on October 1 at 3A and 4A Broadway and alternatively on or about October 30 at 2, Kiukiang Road, the bankrupt repudiated the contract in that she refused to carry out the terms of clause 3D of the contract and refused to work for the defendant. Therefore the contract was thereupon rescinded, it was alleged.

Mr. P. W. Goldring appeared to watch the brief for the debtor.

TSAI TING-KAN DECLINES TARIFF REVISION POST

British Suggestion To Elevate Commission's Status Said To Be Cause

Admiral Tsai Ting-kan has declined the appointment of Chief of the Commission on Tariff Revision, which will sit in Shanghai on March 15, according to the Chinese press. He has gone to Tangshan to take a rest and is decided not to proceed to Shanghai.

The admiral's resignation came as a result of the suggestion of the British Legation in Peking that ministers of the various powers in China's tariff should be appointed to attend the conference. Great Britain intimated that Sir Beilby Alston, the Minister to Peking, would be appointed to serve on the commission if China also appoints a man of equal rank to serve as chairman.

The Ministry of Finance has appointed Mr. C. F. Hsu, Special Commissioner of Foreign Affairs at Shanghai; Mr. Chia Shih-yi, Customs Superintendent of Chinking who was attached to the Chinese delegation to the Washington Conference and Mr. Sun Ti-chao, formerly director of the Yangtsze Navigation Ticket Syndicate as delegates to the commission.

The Tobacco and Wine Bureau has delegated Messrs. Wu Ting-sung and Mao Chang-chi as its representatives at the conference.

Quezon Heads New Party In Islands

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, Feb. 20.—The long heralded split in the Nacionalista party was accomplished last week with the formal announcement of the formation of the Liberal party, headed by Senator Quezon. One of the prime movers in the organisation is Mr. Camillo Osias, a former official of the bureau of education, who accompanied the Philippine athletes to the Far Eastern Olympic at Shanghai last year.

The old Democrats party has virtually swung over to the Liberals, and other adherents include the Aglipay sect of schismatic Catholics, of whom there are a considerable number in the Islands.

The new party will oppose the Nacionalistas at the polls next June. Although it is not expected that they will obtain a majority in the legislature, it is thought that they will be able to develop a strong and probably noisy opposition to the party in power.

U. S. Forces In Philippines To Be Greatly Reduced

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, Feb. 20.—Press dispatches from America state that the small American military force in the Philippines is likely to be reduced to a mere police body, as a result of the armament reduction treaties. The War Department, it is reported, contemplates withdrawing most of the coast artillery garrison at Corregidor Island at the entrance to Manila Bay as a part of the economy program inaugurated in the army.

New guns to replace some of the Philippine coast defences were ordered some time ago, but the order has been cancelled and the guns, which were already en route, were landed at Honolulu, according to information recently received from the States.

WOMAN'S CLUB TO HEAR SPEECH ON BIRDS OF CHINA

"Birds of China" is the subject of the address to be given before the American Woman's Club by Mr. Andrew Allison this afternoon at the Carlton Cafe at four o'clock. The speaker will tell bird-lovers how to identify the different birds common about Shanghai and its environs and will illustrate his talk with stuffed specimens.

Dr. Allison, who is from the James Sprunt Academy, Kiangyin, in Kiangsu Province, will speak of the possibilities of aviculture in China and discuss the opportunities offered for the study of bird life in Shanghai. The speaker will make an intensive study of some thirty common species of birds which may be seen in Shanghai.

Tea will be served at 4:30 p.m. with Mrs. Roland Hudson and Mrs. R. W. Squires acting as hostesses.

Searches At Harbin Officialy Explained

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Harbin, March 1.—General Go, Chief of the Cavalry Brigade attached to the Headquarters of the General Governor of the Three Eastern Provinces, has issued the following proclamation to the population:

"Rumors have been recently spread in Harbin to the effect that Russian political organisations in the railway zone are preparing for active work. These rumors were partly confirmed by the local press and were creating a nervous atmosphere, hindering normal and peaceful work. These rumors as well as the fact that a certain amount of arms were found at Manchuli station forced me to order some houses at Harbin to be searched on February 27.

"In order to calm the population, I hereby state that no arms were found during the search and therefore there are no reasons to fear any activity on the part of the political parties. I also warn the population that any attempt to upset peaceful conditions will be persecuted with all strictness of the law."

The report that Tuchun Chao Ti of Honan has been assassinated as carried by Reuter's has been officially denied by Peking, according to the Dah Tong News Bureau. Both the Cabinet and the Presidential Palace have received telegrams from the Honan Military Governor saying that Kaifengfu is quiet. The Metropolitan Police have asked the Peking publications to correct the rumor.

Copper Bank Note Issue Is Opposed

According to the Chinese press the Commercial Federation at the French Concession has written to the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce protesting against the issue of copper cent bank-notes of five-cent, ten-cent, 20-cent, 50-cent and 100-cent denominations.

The petition says that according to reports in circulation a certain Min Foo Bank has contemplated the issue of such bank-notes and is said to have taken up the matter with the Municipal Council. This new move, declare the petitioners, would result in a more serious depreciation of the value of copper cents which are getting so cheap that it will soon be possible to exchange one dollar for 160 copper cents.

A similar protest has also been filed by the Chinese Tram Car Co. with the Chinese Chamber of Commerce at Nantao.

BETTER WORD BOOKS
ARTHUR BRISBANE SAYS.—"All of us need language more than any other one thing. . . . Language is the expression of the only real life, that of the mind. We must have words to express thought, and words to think with, for our thought is limited to our words. . . .
You may read a book of synonyms, as Stevenson used to read the dictionary, occasionally and not waste time.
The Happy Phrase book
When the mind is filled with good phrases, they will spring spontaneously to the lips or pen as do good words. Even without definite effort to memorize the phrases, but simply by the mere perusal of them at odd moments, one's conversational powers will receive stimulation. Now ready at Mex. $2.15.
Putnam's Phrase Book
A Dictionary of 6000 of the World's Best English Phrases carefully selected, and arranged alphabetically under 192 General Headings and more than 300 sub-headings.
How to Prepare a Social Letter, showing how to combine into an acceptable, graceful, and courteous letter, a few phrases which the writer may select from the 6000 given.
One Hundred Actual Model Social Letters, complete and ready for use. Additional letters may be easily and quickly compiled by the use of the Dictionary of 6000 Phrases together with accompanying instructions.
Complete Index to the entire volume including all of the General Headings and sub-headings. Mex. $4.75.

FRANCE TO GIVE BANQUE'S AFFAIRS THOROUGH AIRING

Premier Poincare Explains Position Of Government

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 4.—In the course of the three days' debate in the French Senate, ending in the adoption of the Banque Industrielle de Chine bill, M. Jeanmeney, the Finance Committee's reporter, supported the project, if only, he said, because the honor of France was engaged in consequence of the action of the Foreign Ministry; but he insisted on the necessity of safeguards in connection with the reflotation of the bank and declared that every share must be paid up before France could make sacrifices.

M. Keynard, the reporter of the Foreign Affairs Committee, severely criticised the action of the Foreign Ministry.

M. Poincare declared that the bill was simply an authorisation to enter into negotiations with the Government, and that he would not ask for credit for the reflotation of the bank if the Boxer indemnity were not sufficient; he did not think, however, after China's attitude during the war, that it would be courteous to demand that she should pay the part of the Boxer indemnity still due, unless simultaneously France undertook to use the money to save the Banque Industrielle de Chine, of which the Chinese Government was the principal shareholder.

M. Poincare declared that the French Government's sole preoccupation in the negotiations, which were about to be opened, would be to save the money of the depositors and that no criminal or civil responsibilities connected with the failure of the bank would be covered by the Government.

The deputy, M. de la Maye, one of the principal critics of the bill, said that the bank appeared to have been the museum of all the lowest methods of profiteering in the country, and he wanted to know what lay behind the desire to link the interests of France to a bank that had failed and to the mistakes of the officials.

The Minister of Finance said that if the reflotation of the bank were impossible, recourse would be had to the creation of a new establishment to take over the business, while, if this could not be realised, liquidation would be carried out and the depositors reimbursed. The Government entirely agreed to the demand that the whole of the personnel of the bank should be changed, and that the judicial investigation should be carried through to the end.

Fengtien—Chihli Factions Patch Up Quarrel, Is Belief

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Wu Imposes Taxes To Raise $30,000,000

(China Press Correspondence)

Hankow, Feb. 28.—General Wu Pei-fu's scheme for imposing additional military taxation on Hupeh province calls for $30,000,000 a year from the various revenues. He has issued stringent orders to General Hsiao Yao-nan to enforce his taxation scheme even at the expense of coercion against popular resentment and opposition.

The various trades affected by his military taxes are now arrayed against Wu Pei-fu's highhandness in taxation matters. The additional amount of tax in different trades ranges from an increase of 20 to 300 percent.

Ghandi Followers In Army Punished

(Reuter's Service)

Allahabad, March 5.—The Pioneer reports that slight trouble recently occurred in the Fourteenth Sikhs and the Nineteenth Punjabis at Jullundur, both of which regiments hold extremely fine war records.

Two men of the Fourteenth Sikhs wore black turbans although in uniform—(black caps are worn by Mr. Gandhi's supporters). When disciplinary measures were taken six other men followed suit and subsequently twenty other men deserted.

A sepoy of the Nineteenth Punjabis who insisted on wearing a tunic of non-regulation length was arrested. He went on hunger strike and the whole of his company followed his example out of sympathy, but the trouble subsided after the sepoy had been sentenced to imprisonment. Five men, who afterwards paraded in black turbans and disobeyed the order to remove them, were sentenced to imprisonment.

Both regiments, which are due to proceed on service overseas, are said to have been influenced by agitators while on leave prior to their departure.

"The Penalty" is one of the Sensational and Inspirational Dramas of the Screen By

GOVERNEUR MORRIS

Here is a picture which moves at a rapid pace from one stirring climax to another, building up suspense and dramatic tension, until there is achieved a climax as big,—as gripping,—as vital as has ever been upon the screen.

Never for an instant is the interest of the audience permitted to lag, for the picture is so real,—so true in it's presentation that each one who sees it will veritably live through each situation with the artists who enact it.

It is not often that a single picture is so richly endowed with dramatic tone as well as an abundance of colorful and interesting settings and effects.

You really can not Grasp its Magnitude until you see it.

LOCAL BANKERS OPPOSE LEVY OF TAX BY GEN. WU

Strong Opposition Expressed Against $30,000,000 Military Taxation

Strenuous opposition have been aroused among banking circles in Shanghai against the levying of a $30,000,000 tax on Hupeh Province by General Wu Pei-fu for military purposes. The concensus of opinion is that the measure as adopted by General Wu is fast crippling the finance of the nation. Some declaration denouncing the move is expected to be made shortly.

The bankers declare that two-thirds of the national revenue, including the receipts from likin, railway surplus, salt gabelle, wine and tobacco tax and stamp tax have already gone into the pockets of the militarists instead of the treasury of the government, and Wu's action will further bring the system to destruction.

The new tax will impose a great hardship on the merchants of the province as well as those in Shanghai who has business connections with Hankow firms. Wu's avarice for money is costing a great deal of his popularity in this city. The failure of the Conference of National Affairs being called at his initiative, bankers say, is indicative of the decline of his popularity in this and other ports.

Dr. Yui To Address Ningpo Y. M. C. A.

Dr. David Z. T. Yui, people's delegate to the Washington Conference, left yesterday on the Hsin Kiangteen for Ningpo where he will address the Y.M.C.A. tomorrow upon its inauguration of a $28,000 financial campaign for the erection of an association building. Dr. Yui will speak on his impressions of the Disarmament Conference.

The Ningpo Y.M.C.A. has been organised for three years with a membership of over 1,000. Of the proceeds of the campaign $20,000 will be used for the erection of the building while the balance will be devoted to the running expense of the association for the current year. The campaign is being conducted by the local gentry, merchants and officials as well as members of the association. The work is divided in 56 teams, the quota of each being $500.

Soviet Agrees To Drop Propaganda

(Reuter's Service)

Stockholm, March 4.—The Russo-Swedish commercial agreement submitted to Parliament today provides for complete resumption of diplomatic relations, mutual facilitation of trade and abstention from political propaganda in each other's territory but does not touch on the rights and obligations incurred by former governments pending the conclusion of a general treaty.

The Minister of Commerce declared that agreement had not yet been reached on the question of granting Swedish credit to Russia Sweden had excluded de jure recognition of the Soviets from the discussion because it had been found impossible to settle this question.

Bogus Benefit Fund Collector Is Jailed

A ricsha coolie who secured a considerable sum of money by passing a bogus subscription list among Japanese residents of the Settlement was sentenced to one year in jail by British Assessor Hutchison and Magistrate Li in the Mixed Court yesterday.

The coolie canvassed the Japanese district with the subscription list saying that he was collecting funds for the benefit of the returned coolie labor battalions who served during the war in France.

Wood's Financial Program Passed

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, Feb. 20.—Governor Wood's entire program of Financial legislation for the Philippines was passed in an extra session of the legislature last week, together with many other important measures recommended by him. Among the latter is an appropriation of eighteen million pesos for the development of the University of the Philippines during the next nine years. Measures which failed of passage included a new code of forestry laws designed to protect the timber lands of the Islands.

At the end of the regular session, the legislature had passed only a few measures, most of them of minor importance. The governor therefore called a special session lasting five days, during which most of his reform program was enacted into law.

Ohio Mayor To Furnish Park Spooners With Police Protection

MEET Mr. George L. Oles, recently elected Mayor of Youngstown, Ohio. Young and ambitious politician, take notice and please study the platform of the popular Mayor-elect. Mr. Oles was elected on a freak platform providing for discontinuance of street-car service, turning the streets over to jitney buses and for jailing any citizens who paid taxes under a recent re-valuation, which he considered too high. Other planks in Oles's platform include permitting "spooning" in city parks under police protection, dismissing the entire police force if it doesn't mend its ways, and a promise to turn his entire salary over to charity. Oles started in business in Youngstown with a barrel of potatoes and a wheelbarrow. Now he has one of the largest food businesses in the City.

Obituary

MRS. P. MARSHALL

Mrs. Peter Marshall, whose husband died just a month ago, succumbed Saturday night at the Isolation Hospital to an attack of scarlet fever. Mrs. Marshall was a native of Philadelphia. A young daughter survives. Funeral services will be held today at 4:30 p.m.

MR. S. CHILVER

Funeral services were held yesterday at 5 p.m. at Bubbling Well Cemetery for Mr. S. Chilver, who died Saturday at the General Hospital following an operation. Mr. Chilver came to Shanghai 33 years ago to join the Municipal Police. After rising to the rank of inspector and being for many years in charge of the West Hongkew station, he retired ten years ago to take up a position in the revenue department of the Council. A widow and daughter, Mrs. T. Poignand, survive.

Charles Francis McWilliams

A Requiem Mass for the late Charles Francis McWilliams, formerly of Yokohama and Manila, who died on the 3rd inst., was said at St. Joseph's Church by the Rev. Father F. Maumus, S. J., at 7:30 yesterday morning.

The funeral took place at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Bubbling Well Cemetery, the service at the graveside being conducted by the Rev. Father F. Scellier, S. J. The chief mourners were Mrs. C. F. McWilliams and Mrs. L. Zenor, widow and daughter of the deceased. The coffin, draped with the Municipal Police flag, was borne to the grave by Messrs. C. R. Burkill, J. Keegan, A. L. Anderson, Harold C. Norman, M. French and J. H. Green.

The late Mr. McWilliams having been an active member of the Municipal Police Reserve, a squad of Specials, in charge of Head Constable Gibson, attended the funeral. The Regular Police, under Capt. R. M. J. Martin, Asst.-Commr. and Inspectors Kerrigan and Sinclair, were well represented; two dismounted Sikh troopers stood sentry at the gates. There was a large attendance of friends of the deceased.

Among the beautiful flowers sent were wreaths from Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Bryant, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Connell, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Crow, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Stewart Evans, Messrs. Fessenden and Holcomb, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Firth, Mr. J. H. Green, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Keegan, Miss K. E. Leach, Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Norman, the Asst-Commr., Officers and Members of the Shanghai Municipal Police Reserve, Dr. and Mrs. T. K. M. Siao and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Walker.

48 DEAD IN STORM

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 6.—A despatch from Lourenco Marques states that a cyclone has practically wiped out the port of Chinde between Beira and Quelimane. All buildings in the track of the storm were destroyed and many launches and other craft sunk or smashed. The loss of life is believed to total 8 Europeans and 40 natives. The damage is estimated at £250,000.

Status Of Lawyers Fixed At Peking

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, March 3.—The Ministry of Justice has published an order governing the activities in China of lawyers who are nationals of Powers not enjoying extraterritorial rights.

It provides that such nationals who have been in the judicial services of their countries or who are duly qualified to practise law in their courts will be qualified to practise in the Chinese courts and will be furnished with certificates authorising them to do so after examination of their credentials by the Ministry.

Exchange Fluctuations
Asia Banking Corporation

March 6, 1922

Spot bar silver was up ⅛d. and forward unchanged in London on Saturday. The New York price declined to 63¾ cents, and the London-New York cross rate improved to 441¼.

The official rates here today were unchanged from Saturday. In the early part of the forenoon the market was very firm indeed, with speculators keen sellers.

As high as 3-2¼ for March, 3-2¼ for April and 3-2 for May was done in Sterling. Gold Dollars were done at 70 for March, 69¾ for April and 69½ for May.

Just before the Tiffin interval, however, advices were received that the Hongkong market was weak, the strike there being settled. Our rates, therefore, ceased off here and, in the late afternoon, there were no sellers of Sterling at better than 3-1¾ for March, 3-1⅝ for April and 3-1½ for May.

The best sellers of Gold Dollars were offering 69½ for March and 69¼ for April, the market being then about steady. India bought some silver in London on Saturday, and the market there is reported to have closed easy. New York report their market too as being easy, with good sellers, particularly for forward delivery.

Singapore Rubber Auctions

Singapore, February 22, 1922

A further decline has taken place in the London market since our last report, 8d. being quoted this morning for Standard Sheet. New York has remained dull at 15 cents, but on account of a rising cross-rate the c.i.f. prices have declined. The local market has declined in sympathy with London, and sellers have been more willing to part with their holdings.

There was quite a big quantity of rubber for sale at the weekly auction today, viz: 1004 tons, out of which 828 tons were offered and 710 tons changed hands. The demand was good owing to "Shorts" offering, but prices show an all-round decline of about two cents on the week.

Awarded Standard Ribbed Smoked Sheet sold at 27 cents, which marks a drop of 2 cents. Two lots reached 27½ cents.

The demand for this grade and Sheet equal to Standard, which fetched the above prices, was good.

Fair average and Off Quality Sheet found ready buyers.

Only one lot of Awarded Standard 1st Latex was sold, the price being 27 cents.

Crepe equal to Standard was wanted at prices about two cents down on the week.

Off Color Latex and Mettled Crepes were shown a fair amount of interest.

Fine Brown, Dark and Barky Crepes found ready buyers at prices on an average only about one cent lower than last week.

The tendency at the close was decidedly weaker with buyers bidding 26½ cents for Singapore Standard parcels.

CHURCHILL SEES 'GROWING PERIL OF COMMUNISM'

Coalition Leader Pleads For Unity In Political Fight

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 4.—Mr. Churchill, speaking at Loughborough, said that a political battle was certain in the near future.

Was it, he asked, to be fought on our side according to plans made by skilful leaders like an organised army or was it to be a soldiers battle with generals engaged in quelling insubordination?

Mr. Churchill said he was confident that when the time came they would go into action under trusted leaders. It would be a battle against the growing peril of communism. Victory, he declared, was certain if they remained united but if they were divided they would let in a party whose policy would injure the cohesion of the Empire.

He predicted that out of the Coalition would arise a strong united National Party, liberal and progressive in a pacific policy both at home and abroad and determined to maintain the traditions of a united Empire. He said that the Coalition Government was deserving of hearty support and it was the best government he had ever seen.

Mr. Churchill proceeded to say that the Government's influence abroad had been enhanced because it had followed the policy of stability of peace and had endeavored to mitigate the sentiments of revenge against a beaten enemy.

We shoud delude ourselves, he declared, if we supposed that the difficulties and dangers of the Irish question were likely to end speedily, but the Government was using the most powerful weapons, namely, British good faith and Irish responsibility.

He described the argument in favor of applying the Irish policy to India as a cheap form of chop logic, as the conditions and character of the Irish and Indian problems were entirely different.

He agreed that the burden of taxation was too heavy, but £130,000,000 had been retrenched in a single year, without starving the children of education or the Empire of its Naval position.

All these prospects, Mr. Churchill concluded, would be shattered by the advent to power of the Socialist party which was still unfit to govern.

CHANG AND SUN IN LEAGUE, NEW THEORY AT PEKING

Canton's Vice Chief Of Foreign Affairs At Mukden

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, March 2.—According to a telegram from Mukden General Chang Tso-lin, after discussions with Mr. Yen Kung-cho and various military leaders, has resolved to return to Peking for an interview with the President regarding the Cabinet. Mr. Yeh Kung-cho left Mukden for Tientsin on February 28, and it is assumed that General Chang intends to go thoroughly into the situation and see whether the opposition to Mr. Liang Shih-yi is insurmountable.

If the discussions in Peking lead him to believe that it would be futile further to insist upon the resumption of the Premiership by Mr. Liang he will probably come to an agreement with the Central Government regarding the appointment of a new Premier.

General Pao Kwei-ching will arrive in Mukden this evening, and Mr. C. C. Wu, Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs at Canton, has already arrived there. It is believed, therefore, that negotiations have been opened between General Chang and Dr. Sun Yat-sen, with a view to a much wider settlement than that of the Premiership. The arrival of Mr. Wu is now thought to be the real explanation of the mysterious visit of Mr. Tuan Chi-jui to Tientsin, where he is at greater liberty to keep in touch with developments at Mukden.

As regards the suggested appointment of General Pao Kwei-ching as Premier the pendulum of public opinion has swung back considerably owing to reports that Mr. Liang Shih-yi has no intention to retire from the political stage and that General Chang Tso-lin is prepared to give him all the support possible, short of going to war.

Unofficially it is hinted that while the Chihli Party is endeavoring to reach an agreement with Dr. Sun Yat-sen, General Wu Pei-fu is in indirect touch with General Chen Chiung-ming, but foreign official telegrams from Canton report that the relations of Dr. Sun and General Chen have undergone a change for the better and that opposition between the Southern leaders is improbable.

Pure Malt-Extract, Fresh Eggs, Full-Cream Swiss Milk
A scientific preparation and perfectly balanced combination of Proteids, Fats, Carbohydrates & Vitamines A. B. C.
which are indispensable to perfect health, in fact, to maintain life. They are contained in most foods, but their life-giving power is always reduced to a minimum, if not wholly destroyed in the process of cooking.
After years of scientific research, Dr. A. Wander of Berne (Switzerland) succeeded in establishing a method by which, in the manufacture of "OVOMALTINE" these vital elements are preserved in their original form. In the full significance of the word,
Ovomaltine Is A Pure Complete Food
It contains no chemicals or drugs
It is easily prepared—no cooking

Shifting Responsibility

THE reports reaching Shanghai from Harbin disclose that that town has recently been the object of the most scrutinising search on the part of the Chinese authorities, which search had for its object the seizure of stores of military arms supposed to be concealed somewhere and by somebody. According to General Kuo, no arms were found nor even the slightest indication of a possible political coup in the near future.

So far this piece of news is very reassuring, but the question arising in the minds of interested readers is, what is all the searching about? Who is instituting the search and which particular kind of arms is being ferreted out? This procedure of instituting official searches for arms is not a new departure, nor have the instigators always managed to conceal their identity. Vladivostok of all the towns in the Far East has witnessed more searches for arms than any other town in the whole universe. It can be safely said that never in the history of modern warfare have there been so many systematic raids and searches instituted and made as in Vladivostok. And why? Merely because somebody has to be blamed for having supplied the Russian reactionary forces with arms to fight the Chita Army and this is the reason for the pantomine in Harbin. In Vladivostok the pawns in the hands of the bigger fry were the Merkulovites, but in Harbin these pawns are the Chinese.

Certain explanations are necessary. In the first place the question arises: From whence did the Kappelites and other remnant reactionary military Russian units obtain the rifles, etc., to launch their offensive against the Chita Government? It will be remembered that all these units were disarmed prior to their being permitted to cross over the Chinese Eastern Railroad after their defeat at Chita by the People's Army in the fall of 1920. At the time these Kappelite and other troops were disarmed a conflict took place between the Chinese and Japanese troops as to which of the two was to disarm them. The Japanese interfered in the work of disarming, which, according to agreement, was purely and simply the duty of the Chinese. However, the incident passed, not without its reactions.

The other interesting circumstance is that certain stocks of arms are known to have existed in Vladivostok since the evacuation of the Allied Expeditionary Forces. A very prominent fature of the whole affair is that it is and always has been a physical impossibility to smuggle arms of any description into Vladivostok either by sea from the east and south or by rail from the west because Japan has controlled all the arteries of communication in that region since the evacuation of the Allied Expeditionary Forces.

It becomes perfectly clear now that the White Army could not have obtained its arms from Heaven or even the other place, although some people would no doubt like to offer something like this as an explanation. As the moral responsibility for the action of having supplied the Kappel Forces with arms must be borne by someone, that someone is endeavoring to shift the responsibility onto the shoulders of someone else and this explains the reason why the Chinese are being pulled into the matter. How far the plotters will succeed in shifting the responsibility remains to be seen.

As always happens after searches such as these, the interests of foreign residents in the towns that have been searched immediately become the matter for most serious attention on the part of the plotters, who adopt all manner of Asiatic strategy calculated to further their own interests to the detriment of all other interests. This continues ad lib and its repetition renders it all the more obvious, so that, as a natural sequence, the policy becomes stripped of all its varnish and tinsel and the bare truth at last is revealed. That truth is the factor upon which the whole future policy of the intriguers is based and in diplomatic language introduces such phrases as "annexation," "extra-territoriality" and "spheres of influence."

Princess Mary

The Bride In The World's Eye

["Current Opinion" has been collecting information about Princess Mary and has woven it into the following article.]

"A singing voice of unusual sweetness and power, a creamy complexion which, upon the smallest provocation, becomes suffused with blushes, a walking gait tending to break into a run and an unexpected timidity of manner—these are the essential personal traits of that Princess Victoria Alexandra Alice Mary, only daughter of the King of England, London dailies dwell upon the aptitude of the Princess for establishing herself in the hearts of the British. She is unlike royal princesses in the freedom with which she mingles with the public. She is said to have a passion for crowds and nobody can move much about English cities of importance without becoming familiar with her personal appearance. She deserts markedly from the etiquette of the court in her propensity to shake hands, a habit copied from her brother, the Prince of Wales, who is said to call her "Mim," a name the Queen does not like.

If, in this twenty-fifth year of her age, the Princess Mary seems to have abandoned the bookish tastes of her early youth, that, it seems, is additional evidence of the Queen's influence in moulding the character of her only daughter. Her Majesty is said in London society organs to cherish an idea that literary princesses, in England at any rate, are sure to be unlucky. She did not, therefore, approve of her daughter's early devotion to poetry. The little Princess Mary was in her teens enthusiastic over Victor Hugo, Lamartine and the earlier poets of France. She speaks German, French and Italian with perfect fluency, but when she wanted to take up Latin and Greek the Queen interfered. The Queen likewise, according to Truth, did not relish the interest her daughter once took in ancient history because its episodes are so unedifying, the adventures of the Roman Emperors particularly so.

POETS VS. EXPLORERS

Emphasis was accordingly laid upon geography, drawing and music, the Queen herself, says the London News, assisting in the construction of trays filled with sand, out of which whole continents, with their physical features, were modelled. Princess Mary yielded the point with a pout, for she much preferred the poets to the explorers, but a compromise was ultimately arranged. If she could bound Bolivia she might read Ariosto. In drawing she evinced a marked tendency to caricature, making comical portraits of the cabinet ministers and ambassadors who appeared at court, another propensity which had to be suppressed lest the royal family seem unconstitutional in displays of political preferences. In music she did brilliantly, especially with the piano, and a tale is in circulation to that effect that she burst into tears when her ambition to perform in public was frustrated. She has marked strength of fingers and wrists and a gift of interpretation which would enable her to gain a livelihood as a music teacher if, like so many of the luckless German princesses, she were thrown suddenly upon her own resources. She is most partial to Beethoven. The sensitiveness of the Princess to music is extreme, apparently, for some compositions are forbidden because of their tendency to move her tears.

This sensitiveness has resulted in outbursts of tears when the Princess Mary found herself baffled by lack of skill, or patience, in her needlework or her painting. As a needlewoman she is really expert, although the acquisition of this skill has involved much weeping. She is also haunted, by a dread that she does not dance gracefully. In fact, the timidity of the Princess is so easily brought to the surface that she will check herself in the flow of her conversation and relapse into silence, her cheeks flaming with the blushes for which she is famous. When, at last, feeling a trifle more at home, the Princess emerges from her confusion, she is chatty and vivacious easily amused, likely enough to dance for two or three hours in very mixed company, including lads from the East End of London as well as army officers of high rank. The etiquetic requiring her partner to wait for his dance until she asks him is waived, and she has even been known to laugh with delight when some presuming youth permitted himself the luxury of "cutting in." It is an open secret that the Princess and her mother do not agree on the subject of the propriety of some of the dances tolerated in the best society. The Puritanical temperament of the present Queen of England was not inherited by her only daughter, and they do not agree upon such topics as the proper length of a skirt and the use of slang to which the newspapers agree, the Princess Mary is astoninshingly prone. Her Majesty corrects the Princess by remarking: "I prefer to be addressed in the King's English!" whereupon the young lady has been known to retort: "Oh," that's too shocking!"

PRINCESS AND THE WAR

Whatever unconventionality the Princess displays is ascribed by her Majesty to the general relaxation of deportment occasioned by the war. One illustration was afforded by the persistence of the Princess in getting within the firing zone during the hostilities in France. The young lady in her automobile was halted by a sentry who had no idea of her identity and for two hours she was detained by an officer who suspected that she might be a spy. The Prince of Wales happened to be accessible, and when he was duly brought to headquarters to identify his sister his first words, says the Matin, showed some irritation. "I thought, he said. "I told you to stop following me around." The Princess was treated exactly like any other civilian found within the forbidden area, but she was able to show her commission as a war nurse in hospital work and to give the names and charts of five wounded men whom she had nursed. She had actually brought her typewriter over to France with her and was employed behind the lines in taking dictation—for she is a stenographer—from the head nurse. There seems no reason to doubt from the newspaper evidence that H. R. H. Princess Mary was unusually quick in her secretarial work, writing with ease on her machine and making her shorthand notes at top speed. She was allowed eight hours out of the twenty-four on a cot used at other periods of the day by two girls who help her in the military hospital.

Much has been said about the capacity of the Queen of England as a cook, but Eve, the organ of fashionable London informs us that the Princess Mary makes bread, kneading the dough herself, roasts fowls to perfection and makes the most wonderful jams. She took her first lessons in cooking at the age of twelve and she darns socks to this day. Her one extravagance is in the matter of shoes, which she wears out in the course of her somewhat prolonged fishing excursions and her no less prolonged walking. Before the war she ran races with her brothers at Windsor Castle and did well at cricket. Golf she finally gave up because she found it slow, but she is a lawn-tennis player.

Her favorite sport is what the English call riding to hounds. She was a child brush at a hunt in Norfolk and she has hunted whenever she got an opportunity ever since. It was the taste she shared with Lord Lascelles, the peer she is to marry. Many tales are told of her daring in taking impossible fences, but it is likewise noted that she never lamed a horse although she has been thrown quite over a high fence and fell on one occasion in the middle of a stream. Londoners do not have a chance to see her very often on the back of a horse, but she rides a great deal at Aldershot at Sandringham and at Windsor. An embarrassing feature of this practice is the fondness of the Princess for highmettled steeds, and here again is a taste she has in common with her lover. They have cantered side by side over hedges and ditches at a furious speed in imminent hazard, apparently, of breaking their necks. The Princess is a remarkably good judge of a horse and somewhat daring in her experiments with animals too fresh from the stable She often comes in from the run hatless and with her hair considerably dishevelled

A WRITER OF LIMERICKS

Another open secret regarding the Princess explains her marriage outside the royal circle—she does not, if the London society papers understand her, relish the sort of existence prescribed for the court at the most Puritanical period of its history and still in vogue. Although regular in her attendance at church, her views are not thoroughly orthodox. Her attitude to life reminds the Westminster Gazette of the difficulties of a royal lady, the eldest daughter of Queen Victoria, who was "liberal" in her opinions, literary in her tastes and intellectually curious about life. The Princess Mary has this same interest in new people and in new ideas. Her personal friends include the most motley circle imaginable of actresses, philosophers, explorers, soldiers and clergymen of more or less unsound theology. Her reading is understood to include volumes at which the Queen stares aghast, and in her circle move people to whom Her Majesty is by no means partial. "It is the old story of a conflict of an expanding nature with a narrowing environment."

The Prince of Wales as a lad found the restrictions of the paternal roof overpowering He was brought to terms when at college by a threat to make him live with his mother and sister at Windsor. He capitulated. The Princess Mary is said to ache with the same longing to escape the trammels of etiquette, an existence that forces her to do the same thing day after day. Hence the bewildering variety of her occupations and interest—nursing, typewriting, farming, riding, music, fishing and even, it seems, the writing of "limericks," which appear now and then without any suspicion on the part of the public regarding the identity of the author.

CHARACTERISTIC STORIES

The generosity which is obviously the foundation of her character asserted itself to some purpose when a young woman in whom she was interested met with a rebuff in soliciting subscriptions for a hospital fund. A person of exalted station, noted for a miserly tendency as well as for a fortune of unusual size, flatly declined to give a shilling to a needy institution. This refusal was made somewhat humiliating by the ungraciousness of his manner. The Princess Mary is famed in London for her capacity to extract money for charitable objects from people quite reluctant to part with cash. Indignant at the circumstances of this case, the Princess herself undertook to extort a smart subscription from the offender. She named a sum which was smart indeed, and it was paid over without more ado.

The Princess is said to be well informed concerning the financial resources of individuals in London who can afford the luxury of giving away a thousand pounds and for that reason her favorite charities usually flourish. On one occasion she raised a snug sum by making bead necklaces with her own hands and these she sold among her friends for the benefit of the war wounded. Her solitary appearance as a street singer is celebrated in the Paris Humanite because she paid a delicate compliment at the time to French taste. It was during the war. She joined a party of young people and carolled and sang up and down a thoroughfare for two hours, imploring the charity of passersby. A lady-in-waiting was horrified. "What if you had been recognised by these French!" she exclaimed. "You, a Princess of England!" "I hope I'm too pretty a girl," said Her Royal Highness, "to be taken by any Frenchman for a Princess of England."

"A Hundred Years Ago When I Was Seven"

"I recollect when I was seven. That's a hundred years ago. I recollect leavin' home with my family and comin' to this country on a ship. Our home was in County Longford, Ireland. That's a long time ago, but somehow I remember the old home and the comin' to this country better than I remember things that happened a long time after."

James Murray, 107 years old, was standing at the gate of Trinity Cemetery, New York, reminiscing. He has been the guardian of that gate for a little more than fifty years. And every day for all that time, rain, snow or fair weather, James Murray has been at his post. He is not as spry now as he once was. His memory falters a little in spots that take in decades. But much he does recollect, and some of that is enough to make a picture of old time New York—New York city as it was more than fifty years ago.

James Murray was not always a gate keeper of a cemetery, of course. Before he went to his post there he had known more interesting days. But he denies it; he affirms and insists that he sees a great deal now that makes life worth the trouble of living it, and as he stands in the cemetery gate he flourishes a blackthorn stick and puffs fiercely at the oldest and foulest piper at large, protesting that the days of old were not better than days now.

The pipe and the blackthorn stick are mementoes of Ireand. They were his older brother's property, and they came from the old country a hundred years ago.

"What did I do after I got to this country?" he asks.

"Well, I recollect that my brother got me a place, with a fair wage, on a farm. A farm did he call it? A place of two score acres; small; on Fourteenth street, would you believe? Neither sheep nor goats, but belike a cow or two. Neither corn nor rye did we raise there, but only vegetables. I kept my place there so long that the buildings began to rise up about it. I don't remember clear exactly. Yes, it was called the Spingler Farm, from the name of the master. It ran across what they call Union Square and joined another farm a bigger one, that was known, as I remember, as the Brevoort.

"Beyond that, on a road they were callin' Broadway, I mind another little farm—a place with a cow and hens. They had built a big ugly house on it. They called it the Goelet house. I went to look at it last year but it was gone. But the old place I knew as a lad was still standin', blocked up with buildin's all around it, but I knew it well for the Spingler house. It had another name, too. I forget——"

The name Van Beuren was suggested to the old man.

"Aye, he was the master, Van Beuren. I mind a son was born and named Frederick. 'Twas me that learned Frederick how to milk a cow. I had been workin' on the place ten years when the lad was born. Th fifth generation, they said he was. And I was workin' on it when he married and brought his bride there. He became my master in his turn, and when a son was born they named him the same as the father."

The old gatekeeper was asked to tell of the son.

"I don't recollect." he said. "I'm not sure of any of it. It was while I was workin' on the Spingler Farm that I took a bride for myself and that my son was born."

The Splingler house, or the Van Beuren house as it is better known, now stands at 21 West Fourteenth street.

The centenarian thought for a while, as if trying to make himself remember.

"It was wild thereabouts," he said. "Wild to the north and to the south. There was few houses on the road they're callin' Fifth avenue, but the houses was grand ones. The family I was workin' for had friends on Bleecker street, where my brother drove a coach. 'Times he put me in livery and drove far down to Walker street, where grand people lived.

"But it was wild where the monuments now stand, Washington Square, and a little bit of river ran through it, with all the rest sand and brush. I took my daughter down to play afterward, but the river had dried up. That was a while before I got this job. Dr. Fred Van Beuren got me the job at the cemetery after the civil war. But I recollect ridin' on a horse from here up to that little river that dried up. It took me nearly a day.

"Once I drove with my brother far up to the west and the north to a fine house with fine trees in its yard. They called it the Apthorpe House. It was on the Bloomingdale road; and all about it were huts that the squatters were puttin' up.

"I worked for the Van Beuren family right on through the war. I haven't got all my dates exactly clear; but I can recollect the young gentlemen of those days comin' to the house on horseback and the young ladies comin' in coaches and carriages. Finest horses I ever saw. It remember a dark, slim young gentleman, with black, wavy hair, who used to ride by once in a while and occasionally come in. He was Mr. Vanderbilt—Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt. He could ride a horse like a gentleman should ride. Then there was a James Fisk, and sometimes I would see a Mr. Tweed, who was something in politics, I forget just what."

Just a few years ago Mrs. Mary Spingler Fonerden (originally Von Erden) died at the age of 90 in the old Van Beuren house.

After Fourteenth street had grown up about the old home and its gardens, when Macy's Red Star was in its ascendancy at Sixth avenue and Fourteenth street, there were always groups of people standing staring at a farm, with a cow and a vegetable garden, flower beds and hens, in the midst of a booming city. And when Mrs. Mary Spingler Fonerden Van Beuren went out in her closed, glass incased, air proof carriage, with liveried coachman and a span, she was followed by a crowd, for such an old fashioned outrigging as that was a novelty in that latter day.

James Murray's little great-granddaughter came to walk with him to the home of her mother. He lives with his grand-daughter a widow who has grown and married children. As they walked down Amsterdam avenue the old man turned to say:

"'Tis not that I need the child. It's to keep her out in the air that her mother sends her."

The Pneumonia Month.

March is a typical pneumonia month and usually gives a high rate of mortality for the disease. After a long and hard winter, the system loses much of its resistance and people grow careless. When every cold, no matter how slight, is given prompt and intelligent attention, there is much less danger of pneumonia. It should be borne in mind that pneumonia is a germ disease and breeds in the throat. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is an expectorant and cleans out the germ ladened mucus and not only cures a cold but prevents its resulting in pneumonia. It is pleasant to take. Children take it willingly. Sold Everywhere

Hall's Distemper has led the way to a new era in house decoration—the era of brighter, cleaner and healthier homes.

It is the most durable of all decorations, lasting for years with freshness unimpaired, whereas wall-papers deteriorate from the first day by fading and accumulating dust and dirt.

Hall's Distemper is a thorough disinfectant, and is applied directly upon the wall, forming a hard surface, from which dust and dirt may be "spring-cleaned" by lightly sponging with warm water.

Hall's Distemper (Registered Trade Mark) is a unique preparation and has the recommendation of leading sanitary authorities, architects, and decorators everywhere.

Avoid disappointment by refusing substitutes which do not possess its advantages.

Odd Nature Facts Of Unusual Interest

Where is the greatest forest in the world? The question was asked in the forestry section of an organisation for the advancement of science at a meeting held not so long ago. The importance of forests for equalising the climate and the rainfall of the globe was under discussion, and the purpose of the question was to show where the great forest tracts of the world are situated.

One member, replying offhand, was inclined to maintain that the greatest continuous tract of forest lies north of the St. Lawrence River, in the provinces of Quebec and Ontario, extending northward to Hudson Bay and Labrador; a region measuring about seventeen hundred miles in length from east to west, and a thousand miles in width, north and south.

A Government official from Washington rejoined that a much larger continuous area of timber lands was to be found, reckoning from those in the State of Washington northward through British Columbia and Alaska. But he limited his statement to North America, for he added that, in his opinion, the largest forest in the world occupied the valley of the Amazon, embracing much of northern Brazil, eastern Peru, Bolivia, Ecuador, Colombia and Guinea, a region at least twenty-one hundred miles in length by thirteen hundred in breadth.

Exception was immediately taken to this statement by several members who, in the light of latterday explorations, have computed the forest area of Central Africa in the valley of the Congo, including the head waters of the Nile to the northeast and those of the Zambesi on the south. According to their estimates, Central Africa contains a forest region not less than three thousand miles in length from north to south and of vast, although not fully known, width from east to west. Discussion, in which the evidence afforded by travels and surveys was freely cited, seemed favorable to the defender of the Amazonian forests.

Later in the day the entire question was placed in another light by a member who was so fortunate as to be able to speak from some knowledge of still another great forest region of the globe. This gentleman gave a vivid picture of the vast, solemn taigas and urmans, the pine, larch and cedar forests of Siberia.

It appears that Siberia, from the plain of the Obi River on the west to the valley of the Indigirka on the east, embracing the great plains, or river valleys, of the Yenesei, Olenek, Lena, and Yana rivers, is one great timber belt, averaging more than a thousand miles in breadth from north to south—being fully seventeen hundred miles wide in the Yenesei district—and having a length from east to west of not less than forty-six hundred versts, about three thousand miles.

Unlike equatorial forests, the trees of the Siberian taigas are mainly conifers, comprising pines of several varieties, firs and larches. In the Yenesei district, and also the Lena and Olenek regions, there are thousands of square miles where no human being has ever been. The long stemmed conifers rise to a height of a hundred and fifty feet or more, and stand so closely together that walking among them is difficult.

The dense, lofty tops exclude the pale Arctic sunshine, and the straight, pale trunks, all looking exactly alike, so bewilder the eye in the obscurity that all sense of direction is soon lost. Even the most experienced trappers of sable dare not venture into the taigas without taking the precaution of blazing the trees constantly with hatchets as they walk forward. If lost there, the hunter rarely finds his way out, but perishes miserably from starvation or cold. The natives avoid the taigas, and have a name for them which signifies "places where the mind is lost."

An Eastern man once wrote to an acquaintance in Utah, where a bounty system prevails, that he thought it would pay to devote his entire time to hunting wolves. The reply which he received explains why the heavy price of $175 has been put upon the head of "the big brother to the fox."

The Utah man wrote that unless one is familiar with the habits of the wolf and the country he frequents one cannot understand how difficult it is to catch the creature. It is almost impossible to poison wolves, for the war Utah people have waged upon them for many years has made them so cunning that it is rare to fine one poisoned.

Their ability to detect traps is uncanny. The Utah man told how three traps had been set on each side of a trail, at intervals of a couple of feet, and a trap was placed directly in the middle of the trail. The man who set the traps hoped that when the wolf detected the trail trap, which was purposely set in a careless manner, he would step aside, and so spring one of the traps carefully hidden at the edge of the trail.

The man's disgust may easily be imagined when one learns that, a day or two later, he found that the wolf had stopped when he scented the trap in the trail, but that instead of stepping either to right or left, had carefully backed out of the danger zone, and had then made a detour around the carefully constructed snare and taken up the trail again some fifty feet farther on.

It is impossible to run these wolves with hounds on account of the extreme roughness of the country, which leaves the rider miles in the rear, and strings the dogs, according to their strength and endurance, for several miles along the trail.

A full grown wild duck is one of the most wary of all creatures, and many are the devices of hunters in various parts of the world to kill or to capture it. There is one method of taking wild ducks, in considerable numbers, practiced in China and elsewhere in the East which is sufficiently unknown to Occidentals to prove of interest.

The natives see that a large number of calabashes, or gourds, shall always be left floating on the water frequented by the birds until they come to regard them as part and parcel of their resorts.

The duck hunter chooses his time, and putting one of the calabashes, with holes cut for his mouth and eyes, upon his head, he wades through the lake, taking care to keep the whole of his body beneath the surface. He cautiously approaches the unsuspecting wild fowl, and, catching one of them by the leg, pulls it with a sudden jerk beneath the water, causing hardly more commotion of the surface than the duck itself when it dives or splashes or plunges for its food. He wrings its neck under the water and fastens it to his belt. Then he deals with another and another in the same fashion until he makes his retreat, equally unnoticed, with a whole girdleful of captured wild ducks.

Viscountess Rhondda Finds World Trade On The Mend

BY HAYDEN TALBOT

London, Jan. 21.—"If for no other reason than that everywhere in the world people are beginning to realise that no one nation can be any longer self-sufficient, I am convinced that we have turned the corner of world-wide business depression and are once again on the upgrade."

Thus Viscountess Rhondda, Britain's foremost woman of trade, answered the question I have been asking business experts in Europe. She received me today in her private office in Victoria street, where she directs the great commercial enterprises of which she is the active head.

In financial circles it is said she is on the directorates of upwards of fifty important industrial corporations, including the Anglo-Argentine Coal Company, Ltd., Cambrian Collieries, Ltd., Globe Shipping Company, Ltd., and the South Wales Printing and Publishing Company, Ltd.

As chairman of the Sanatogen Company she has built up a world trade for a proprietary remedy. In "the city" they tell you she is a vital factor in British business.

Her long fight to establish her right to a seat in the House of Lords has kept her in the limelight. In Whitehall there is little disposition to deride her claims.

OUTLOOK BETTER, SHE SAYS

Lady Rhondda has a way of accomplishing what she sets out to do. One day, if the prophets are right, the King in opening Parliament will have to say, "My Lords and My Lady."

Having interviewed Hetty Green and other American business women, I was astonished to discover that Lady Rhondda is quite a feminine, motherly person. Gentle of voice and kindly eyed, she greeted me with gracious hospitality.

"There are many other signs of a trade revival," she continued. "Conditions generally are more favorable to business than at any time since 1914.

"I hold to the opinion that not only British, but world trade, cannot hope to be restored to prewar levels until the European problem is solved. There must be a return of economic stability in all the European countries before the rest of the world can work back to general prosperity. But I see grounds for optimism in the gradual development of a changing public opinion the world over—a world appreciation of the interdependence of all nations.

"Out of such international gatherings as the Washington Conference, for instance, there must come a substantial gain in this direction. The newspapers have carried the work of that conference to every corner of the globe. Aside from any practical good that may have been accomplished by way of real disarmament, at least another proof that we are inseparably linked by common interests has been abundantly presented to all thoughtful peoples.

"Is it too much to hope that the one indispensable factor of business prosperity—international confidence or trust—may not soon be reborn? Every business man knows that mutual confidence is the cornerstone of successful trading. When it is absent business is impossible.

"Let confidence be restored—and deserved—and the franc, the lire, the mark and the ruble will surely work back to par.

"A remission by the British Government of the debts owing to her by European Governments would undoubtedly go a long way toward establishing confidence."

As to any desirability of cancellation by the United States of Great Britain's debt, she merely said, "One does not discuss that."

"But returning to the heartening signs of improvement in business conditions," she continued, "consider the effect of these Washington proposals on world trade. Unquestionably the increase of unemployment in all countries is but a temporary injury to the few for the lasting benefit of all. The world has been spending upwards of three-fourths of its total resources in building and maintaining engines of destruction. It does not take an economic expert to realise that any limitation of such expenditure must work for good.

"I SUSPECT EXPERTS"

"As for a world conference of business men, as contrasted with politicians, to solve the world's economic problem—I think it is an excellent idea, with reservations.

"I suspect experts.

"It has always been the policy of the British Government to put an amateur at the head of the governmental departments. Experts advise him, to be sure, but the executive himself is always an amateur because we belief the amateur has a broader, more human viewpoint than the expert. And so, as regards a world conference of business men—economic experts—its success would be better assured if it met as an advistory body under the guidance of politicians.

"Frequently purely governmental troubles are not reflected in business conditions—there being a distinct difference between the economic stability of a government and its people.

"But here, as I see it, is the responsibility of every government in the world—politically to establish a world amity which will be the foundation of a restoration of world confidence. An advisory committee of business men, world-wide in scope, would undoubtedly be of inestimable service to such a conference of politicians. But I am skeptical of its power to function successfully in any other capacity.

"In any event, and whatever the means taken, economic recovery is bound to be slow. But there is every reason for confidence in the world's sure return to economic health."

Foods That Strengthen

BY LORETTA C. LYNCH

An Acknowledged Expert in All Matters Appertaining to Household Management.

"Is fresh milk so necessary in the diet? What other foods should I feed my children ranging in age from two to ten? Economy must be a factor," asks a reader.

Even were milk more expensive than it now is, it would still be the cheapest food we could buy for children. Suppose you use dried or evaporated or condensed milk for a child. Then you must buy oranges or fresh hot-house tomatoes and press the juice from them to supply the lack of vitamines in the milk. Are oranges cheap in your neighborhood?

Milk is not only the cheapest food for children, but it forms the corner-stone of a child's diet. Fresh milk not only builds the body, but it contains lime in a cheap form. Lime makes for strong bones and strong teeth.

A glass at each of the three meals is none too much milk. The remaining glass of the quart should be utilised in making simple puddings or in a milk soup.

Green vegetables, such as spinach, string beans, beet tops and the like, supply iron, which makes rich red blood. Dried peas, the beans, and even the potato, supply iron. Tomatoes, potatoes and cabbage supply a vitamine which both milk and cereal lack. It is this vitamine which prevents a disease known as scurvy. Once most all sailors had scurvy. Now it is rare.

Besides milk and cereal, a child's diet should include crust bread, butter (not butter substitute), fruits, vegetables, eggs and a liberal supply of water between meals.

An Emperor's Gift
Among the thousands of beautiful objets d'art to be seen in the store of occasional goods is a magnificent gold and enamel watch set with small diamonds which was a gift from the late Tsar to a Russian princess. This beautiful trinket is made in the form of the lucky June bug with the tiny watchface, only a quarter-inch in diameter, concealed behind the wings of the insect. Necessity has brought this beautiful Bijou with its historic associations upon the market. We can offer it at the very low price of $650.00 and there are many other such bargains at

IODISED
THROAT TABLETS
Allay all irritation

THE General Public is hereby notified that supplies of "IXL" IODISED THROAT TABLETS, the remarkable new throat remedy that is now being so largely and successfully prescribed by physicians in Great Britain, are now being made available for residents in China.

Representing the latest advance in scientific throat medication, these tablets, by reason of their Iodine content, are indubitably superior to any other pastilles or tablets that have yet been evolved by scientific research.

Their use is positively indicated in all cases of Sore and Ulcerated Throat, Hoarseness, Quinsy, Throat Catarrh, Tonsilitis, Laryngitis, etc.

As a highly efficient throat disinfectant when epidemics are rife, IODISED THROAT TABLETS indoubtedly excel any other preparation yet put upon the market.

No malignant Diptheria, Influenza, or other germ can find lodgement on a membranous surface that has been subjected to the peculiar antiseptic influences of these tablets.

Pleasant to the palate, and allaying all irritation, each tablet, as it slowly dissolves in the mouth, releases, in harmonious combination with other fine quality medicaments, a specific quantity of the pure Tincture of Iodine, to soothe, heal, and sterilize the inflamed area.

WARNING:—All cartons of the genuine and original IODISED THROAT TABLETS bear the "IXL" trade-mark, and each tablet is embossed with the letter "A." Reject feeble substitutes.

All first-class chemists supply "IXL" IODISED THROAT TABLETS.

Models Are Shielded By Sculptor

"THE Dance of the Bacchanto," the new fountain at the Grand Casino in Havana, Cuba, has caused much comment. The models are said to have been American girls, but the sculptor refuses to reveal their identity. As a result much mystery surrounds these graceful dancers.

Japanese Obtain Opium Monopoly At Vladivostok

Association Sees Another Attempt To Establish Trade In Poisonous Drug On China's Frontier—Big Sum Paid In Advance For "Rights"

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, March 3.—The International Anti-Opium Association has received from a very reliable source the following facts concerning an endeavor to establish another opium monopoly on the frontiers of China by a neighboring Government. In December, 1921, there appeared in the Vladivo-Nippo, a newspaper published in Vladivostok the following:

"Notice. — The undersigned bureau having acquired from the Vladivostok Government the opium monopoly for the Maritime Province and the special rights pertaining thereto, all persons transacting business in opium are hereby notified as follows:

1.—All opium growers and persons having opium in their possession are requested immediately to notify this bureau, which will purchase their holdings at a reasonable figure.

2.—Opium which has not received official authorisation of the Government and been stamped with the seal of this bureau will be treated as contraband and confiscated by official authority, the holder of the opium being dealt with in accordance with the law for the supervision of Government monopolies.

This bureau is prepared to furnish all regulations and particulars relating to transactions in opium.

(signed) The Siberian Opium Monopoly Bureau, Vladivostok.

OBTAINS MONOPOLY

The Siberian opium monopoly bureau has secured from the Vladivostok Government the opium monopoly for the Maritime Province. The trade name of the Bureau is Yakuro Shokwai and is controlled by a number of Japanese who were conspicuous in the opium trade of Dairen.

This bureau has paid in advance to the Vladivostok Government the sum of Yen 250,000 not merely as "farm rights" but to cover import duties, etcetera for the six months of this present year ending in June.

It has been roughly estimated that at least 60,000 lbs. of opium will have to be imported in order to reimburse the bureau for its first six months advance. The Maritime Province grows annually about 20,000 poods of opium (322 tons), though the Vladivostok paper already mentioned, the Vladivo-Nippo, estimated the production at 750 tons, and in a recent article pointed out that the monopoly bureau would clear Yen 100,000 profit by confining itself to trade in the home product.

The first six months' experience in opium monopoly is being inspired by the Dairen trade. As announced to the world, Japan gave up her Government monopoly at Dairen at the end of March, 1921 and handed over the control of the trade to the Municipal Authorities since when their imports have doubled those of the preceeding year. The profits are used by the Municipal Authorities for road improvements and for beautifying the town, and this is put forward as an encouragement for Vladivostok.

RIGHT TO MANUFACTURE

The Opium Monopoly Bureau, as might have been expected, has obtained the right to manufacture morphia and other narcotic products, which would explain the purpose of importing such quantities of foreign opium. The Siberian opium is rather low in its morphia content, being only five to six percent whereas that of India and Persia will yield from ten to fifteen percent.

On the face of it there is no attempt to cater merely for the local Chinese and Korean population at Vladivostok, of which there are about fifty thousand, for as one local authority states five poods a month would meet the requirements, but it is the old game of smuggling the surplus both of opium and of morphia into China.

Strong representations have been made to the Governments concerned which the international Anti-Opium Association hopes will frustrate all attempts at supplying Vladivostok with foreign opium, but if these representations fail then another plague spot will have been added to the frontiers of China from which debauchery and death will emanate.

Red Army Pushes South Of Habarovsk

(Dalta News Agency)

Chita, March 2.—The latest report of the People's Revolutionary Army says:

"After several clashes with the vanguards of the counter-revolutionaries in the region of Glebovo and Dobrolubovka villages, the People's Revolutionary Army on February 21 occupied Rosengartovka station, 180 versts south of Habarovsk.

"Moving further southward, the detachments of the People's Revolutionary Army wiped out the reactionaries at Lermoutovko station, who tried to offer resistance with the aid of their armored trains. Continuing the pursuit, the People's Revolutionary Army occupied the villages of Pushkino and Lonchakovo.

"On the 25th it wiped out the rebels at Koslovskaya station. The pursuit along the Ussuri Railway and the Ussuri River is in progress."

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, March 5.—Debating on the Ministry of Reconstruction estimates in the Reichstag yesterday, Doctor Mueller, the Secretary of State, declared that there was no intention of abolishing the Ministry, which had been established to demonstrate Germany's desire to carry out the provisions of the Peace Treaty.

The Ministry, he said, besides supervising deliveries of cattle, raw materials and machinery, and the despatch of labor to the devastated areas, had undertaken the task of clearing up the affairs of the former ministry of Colonies. The German Government was prepared to do its utmost to carry out deliveries for the reconstruction of Northern France. Everything would be done to fulfil the demands under the agreements.

French Club Will Stage Play March 18

The seating accommodations in the ballroom are limited to 350. Tickets, costing $3.00 each, may be obtained by non-members only through members. The performance will be followed by a dance and midnight supper.

ANHUI'S FAMINE WORST IN YEARS SAYS MISSIONARY

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, March 3.—"North Anhui is stricken with a famine worse than has been seen since the terrible years of 1911 and 1912," said Mr. Thomas F. Carter, of the American Presbyterian Mission at Nanhsuchow, North Anhui, who is charge of the famine relief work in that section. "In 1911-1912 we estimated that over one half of the population were down with typhus, and the roadsides were strewn with bodies that there was no one to bury. It is not as bad as that this year, but we are facing the fact that a terrible famine is on us".

"We need men—workers. That is, in fact, our greatest need of all. It is a greater difficulty even than getting funds, for there is the danger that even if the money does come in we will not have staff enough to administer it all. There are only twelve men in the district doing mission work, and three of these are doctors. Five of the remaining are engaged in famine work, and the others partly. There is one man from the outside. But even of the five, there are only three who are entirely free. So you see that our need for helpers is desperate.

"The district in North Anhui is as densely populated an agricultural district as any in the world, and regions of it when the flood was at its height were lakes so vast that at times we were out of sight of land, except for islands where the villages had been built upon higher ground. The crops were ruined. As we went along in boats we could see the tops of the Kiaoliang crop, ten and more feet high, sticking out of the water and the people reaping it from boats rented from the boatmen, who in these disastrous days, were simply loaning money, charging at times as much as half of the reaped crop for the use of their boat. All that could be gathered of the harvest of last summer averaged about 10 percent in a district 200 miles by 50 miles.

"Our work is to carry these stricken people over until the new crops come in June. The waters went down in time to plant barley that will be ripe in the middle of May and wheat that ripen early in June. Our desire is to give relief through work projects, highways, dykes, and conservancy projects, though we know that these projects can be but temporary benefits.

"Famines in this part of the country are caused by the Hwai River overflowing. The Hwai flows into Hung Tze lake, but this has no outlet sufficient to carry off the overflow. The Hwai is big as the Hudson River in America and in flood time carries as much water per second as the Mississippi above the Missouri, and as much as the St. Lawrence River. No relief can be permanent until the conservancy projects cutting two big outlets to the sea and the Yellow River, at the estimated cost of $105,000,000 are carried out. Our plans for highways, for dyking the Hwai, for dyking the Fei, the big river north of the Hwai, will give immediate relief, and bring benefit to the country, and prevent minor floods. But we need men and we need money—and most of all men."

Paris Priest Wins Fame As Designer Of Evening Gowns

(China Press Service)

Paris, Feb. 12.—Priests may be debarred from marrying and from knowing worldly love of woman, but this does not prevent one Paris cure whose devoutness and love for his poor parishioners are not questioned, from designing evening dress for wealthy members of his congregation. This fact only became known here last week, however, when attention was called to the growing interest in certain quarters of Paris to robes bearing the label of "Liliane."

When some of the large firms investigated it was found that "Liliane" was really a young girl unknown to the Paris business world. Also it was divulged that her brother was an abbe and that he aided his sister in designing gowns, the two working together every evening devising new ideas which they got from the novelties seen in Paris theaters and described in the theatrical press.

"It is all a matter of loving my work," the priest said. "Both my sister and myself want to help our poor, and therefore I decided to give the talents which Providence provided me."

Aeros Smash In Air; Pilots Killed

(Reuter's Service)

Allahabad, March 4.—Two aeroplanes collided in mid-air near Amritsar today and crashed 400 feet to the ground. No details are available, but it is feared that both pilots and observers have been killed.
